200 CHINESE ARE SLAIN OR INJURED IN BATTLE; LEAGUE MEETS TODAY

Mah's Troops, However, Seize Machine Guns and Artillery.

TRUCE NEGOTIATIONS SAID TO BE FAILURE

More Than Half of Japanese Population in Mukden Stages Parade.

Harbin, Manchuria, Nov. 15 (U.P.).—In a desperate clash today on the Nonni River front, Gen. Mah Chan-Shan's troops captured six Japanese machine guns and two pieces of field artillery.

The Chinese forces held their ground, despite an intense bombardment by guns and planes, according to an official bulletin issued tonight. A casualty list of 200 Chinese, including dead and wounded, was reported.

Japanese airplanes roared over the Chinese lines, bombing their positions, while a machine gun and artillery attack was simultaneously in progress.

Countering the Japanese attack, Gen. Mah's forces drove against the Japanese, to seize the machine guns and heavier artillery.

Muken, Manchuria, Nov. 15 (A.P.).—The Japanese army on the Nonni river front was reported by its headquarters here to have defeated a Chinese cavalry detachment numbering 4,000 in a considerable engagement today and to have occupied the village of Chienkaungti, 12 kilometers northeast of Tah ing.

Japanese infantry, artillery and aircraft were said to have participated in large scale operations which drove off the Chinese, who were threatening to envelop the Japanese right flank. The size of the Japanese force was not revealed, nor the number of casualties, but it was believed there was considerable fighting.

The Japanese position was held to have been greatly improved and the pressure on their right flank relieved, but the Chinese cavalry retired only a short distance and was planning to resume its enveloping movement farther to the east. Its attention was concentrated on the enemy's right flank because the left was protected by the Nonni River and marshland.

Await Reinforcements.

One Japanese cavalryman was said to have been killed and five wounded in repulsing an attack by Chinese cavalry on an outpost yesterday. About 600 Chinese were driven off but they withdrew a short distance, it was said, and were awaiting reinforcements before resuming the attempt to turn the Japanese right flank.

Japanese officers admitted that their troops had been involved in a number of skirmishes during the past four days, but denied they had carried on an offensive movement on a large scale or bombarded the Chinese positions, as reported in messages from Harbin.

More than half the Japanese population of Mukden marched and sang in an orderly, impressive demonstration this morning which proclaimed Japan's rights and the determination to remain as the dominating force in South Manchuria. In excess of 10,000 persons, including infants on their mother's backs and grandparents' and each carrying a Japanese flag, participated in the manifestation.

Blame League Intervention.

Hundreds of banners and thousands of placards on every house in the Japanese section of the city told of Japan's role of peacekeeper in the Orient and blamed the league's intervention in the Manchurian conflict. "We won't forget the hundreds of thousands of lives Japan paid for her peace in Manchuria," was a sentiment often expressed.

There was no evidence of anti-American feeling in any of the pro-who is seeking to aid a peaceful settlement of the Manchurian question as the League of Nations council meets today in Paris.

Efforts in Paris to End Strife Are Centered Around Dawes.

JAPANESE PROPOSAL IS BELIEVED LIKELY

China Expecting Council to Take Definite Action, Not Make Promises.

Paris, Nov. 15 (A.P.).—Efforts of world powers to settle the Manchurian strife between China and Japan centered around Charles G. Dawes, America's Ambassador to London, tonight as high diplomats mobilized in Paris for a special meeting of the League of Nations council tomorrow.

The American Ambassador was in the midst of conferences by which international diplomats hoped to break the deadlock between the two warring countries of the Far East, whose differences were looked upon as a menace to world peace and to prospects for the disarmament conference next year.

Much talk of an "American scheme," or "another Dawes plan" flew about Paris, but informed persons understood it was unlikely the American Government would be sponsor formally for any proposal before the league's council.

Dawes in Conferences.

Nevertheless, Tsuneo Matsudairo, Japanese Ambassador to London, immediately upon his arrival in Paris tonight, hurried to the Ritz Hotel for a conference with the American Ambassador, who also talked with Dr. Alfred Sze, Chinese spokesman, and Rene Massigli, French expert on international relations.

No results of the conferences were announced, but there was a growing belief that Japan's representatives had a plan which would permit their graceful retirement from Manchuria.

The Japanese have entrusted the leadership of their negotiations with Ambassador Matsudairo, and it was understood he had cabled Tokyo for approval of the plan before having it submitted to the council.

Ready to Hear Plans.

It was reliably reported that the United States had no cut-and-dried plan, but that Ambassador Dawes was ready to listen to suggestions with the sole object, not of digging into treaty technicalities, but of finding a way to stop bloodshed and prevent a recurrence of trouble in the future.

Observers were predicting the American Ambassador would not hesitate to sit at the league council table if negotiations turned in such a manner as to indicate his presence would hurry things to a peaceful settlement.

"Some way out is necessary for us all—for us Japanese, for the league and for the whole world," a Japanese spokesman said.

Japanese Suggestions.

Japanese quarters, however, were unwilling to definite a probable basis for a compromise solution. It was suggested that the Japanese might propose Sino-Japanese negotiations for evacuation of Manchuria and negotiations of Japan's five fundamental principles, both to begin at the same time. Japanese hold the most important of their five points to be respect for existing treaties.

In the face of extended Japanese occupation of Manchuria since the council adjourned on October 24, the

HITLERITES SWEEP ELECTION IN HESSE

National Socialists Win 27 Mandates; Now Strongest Party in Diet.

Darmstadt, Germany, Nov. 15 (A.P.).—Hitlerism swept the State of Hesse into its folds in the election of members to the Hessian Diet today, materially adding to the difficulties of Chancellor Bruening's government.

Final returns gave the National Socialists 27 mandates where previously they held none, and now they are numerically the strongest party in the diet, ruled for four years by the Weimar coalition.

The Social Democrats, formerly the leading party, lost nine of their 24 seats and the Centrists three of their thirteen seats. The Communists added six to their previous four seats at the expense of the Social Democrats.

The outcome presents a familiar picture of present-day Germany—a departure from the middle parties toward the radicalism of the right and the left, but especially of the right.

More than one-third of the entire Hessian electorate voted for Adolf Hitler's candidates. Unofficial finals gave the Nazis 300,000 votes out of 800,000 votes counted. The Social Democrats lost about 15 per cent of their followers to Communism and other middle parties lost heavily to the National Socialists.

The old Hessian Diet of 1927, in which the "Nazis" held no seats at all, came to a natural end after its regular four-year legislative period and today's election excited nation-wide interest.

Chancellor Bruening himself spoke in the campaign, as did Hitler and various leaders of the Nationalist opposition.

The "Nazis" conducted their campaign by air, dropping propaganda from planes and sending up balloons decorated with Fascist emblems. No disorders were reported except at Viersheim, where a policeman was stabbed to death and his assailant shot down by a fellow constable.

Brunswick, Germany, Nov. 15 (A.P.).—A plebiscite demanded by Communists failed today to dissolve the Brunswick Diet.

Only about 12 per cent of the electorate voted in favor of dissolution, whereas a vote of at least 50 per cent was required.

The Communists have announced that they next would try to oust the Saxon Diet by the same tactics.

Sailor, One of 10 Bitten By Dog on Vessel, Dies

Manila, Nov. 15 (A.P.).—A small dog which bit ten men aboard the U. S. destroyer J. D. Edwards while at Chefoo, China, six weeks ago caused the death from hydrophobia today of Coxswain John Macom Jones, of Durham, N. C.

The other nine men are being treated at the Canacao Hospital at the Cavite naval base. Physicians said none of them had shown signs of infection.

Finland to Conduct Inquiry on Dry Law

Diet Group Recommends Public Opinion Study on Prohibition.

Helsingfors, Finland, Nov. 15 (A.P.).—The legislative committee of the Finnish Diet today handed to the government a proposal that the nation's opinion on prohibition be ascertained and the cabinet will decide Thursday whether the issue will be submitted to a general referendum.

The people's ideas will be sought on the three following points:

1. Shall the present status of prohibition be upheld or extended?

2. Shall prohibition be repealed and a law passed allowing wines of less than 12 per cent alcohol by weight or a maximum of 3.2 per cent by volume and malt manufactured, imported, sold and stored according to legal stipulations?

3. Shall prohibition be repealed at once a law adopted permitting the manufacture, import, sale and storage of both mild and stronger drinks?

President Soon to Decide On Way of Meeting Deficit

(Associated Press.)

From momentous conferences this week probably will come the administration's long sought answer to the puzzling question of whether to recommend to Congress an upward revision of taxes.

Republican congressional revenue spokesmen will drive deeply into the question with President Hoover and Secretary Mellon. Alongside the study being conducted by the Treasury as to ways and means to meet the growing deficit will be laid the views of legislators.

Senator Smoot, of Utah, chairman of the Senate finance committee, and Representative Hawley, of Oregon, head of the last House ways and means committee, are returning early for the conferences. Smoot arrived yesterday and Hawley is due today.

All revenue legislation is initiated through the ways and means committee, and for several years Hawley has sponsored all of the administration's tax and financing proposals. Throughout the congressional recess he has conducted a study of Federal revenues.

In addition, there is a Republican group headed by Representative Ramseyer, of Iowa, a member of the ways and means committee, that is advocating a tax increase program along the lines of a survey conducted by the Democrats at the behest of Representative Garner, of Texas.

Garner, Democratic leader and ranking party member on the ways and means committee, conferred Saturday with Senator Harrison, of Mississippi, on the Government's financial situation. He is believed to have a program calling for an increase on income taxes in the higher brackets.

TILSON CLAIMS NOMINATION IN SPEAKER RACE

Republican Floor Leader Expresses Confidence in Party's Unity.

DEMOCRATS NOT YET WINNERS, HE STATES

Announcement Is Made as G. O. P. State Delegations Plan Caucus.

(Associated Press.)

The House Republican speakership nomination was claimed yesterday by Representative Tilson, of Connecticut.

The Republican floor leader in the last three Congresses also served notice that if his party fails to organize the House, he expects to be the minority chieftain. He expressed confidence in the party's unity.

In a formal statement, Tilson said that though the Republicans are in the minority, "Control of the House is not yet in the hands of the opposition," and that "we shall fight to the last ditch."

Balance of Power.

"The political balance of power in the House has changed once since last March, and may change again before Congress meets in December," he said.

The statement came as State delegations planned to caucus on the question of selecting a candidate they intend to back at the Republican conference November 30.

Tilson and Representative Snell, of New York, chairman of the powerful rules committee in the last three congresses, are the outstanding candidates. Snell's friends also claim a winning margin of support. Other Republican candidates have about dropped out of the picture since the Democrats ascended to a majority.

Democrats United.

The Democratic forces are united behind Representative Garner, of Texas for the speakership. They will caucus December 5.

The entire Tilson statement follows:

"The political balance of power in the House has changed once since last March, and may change again before Congress meets in December. In the present line-up the Republicans are in the minority, but this fact merely emphasizes the necessity for united teamwork. Control of the House is not yet in the hands of the opposition. We shall fight to the last ditch.

"Having been unanimously chosen by my colleagues last March as floor leader on the Republican side, and death having deprived us of Speaker Longworth, our nominee for Speaker, it was incumbent upon me to become a candidate for that of-

Methodists Score Wet Politicians

Georgia Conference Asks All Members to Influence Liquor Intersets.

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 15 (A.P.).—North Georgia Methodists in conference here have been urged to use every influence at their command to lower "the black flag of rebellion of the liquor interests and their political puppets."

Bishop W. W. Ainsworth, of Birmingham, Ala., and Bishop John M. Moore, presiding officer of the conference, both have demanded drastic action if the gains of prohibition are to be retained.

Others attending the convention, lay members and ministers, have renewed pledges of support to the movement, and say they will return to their charges "filled with new zeal."

Fake Phone Call Assassin's Ruse

Chicago Liquor Dealer Is Shot as Shadow Falls Across Window.

Chicago, Nov. 15 (A.P.).—A gangster assassination plot with the mystery of a Sherlock Holmes case was recounted by police tonight in the shooting early today of Milton Mann, minor liquor dealer. Mann escaped death by inches, a bullet striking him in the neck. He was taken to a hospital, where he asked police protection and insisted he be kept away from windows.

Some one had made an appointment with Mann, police said—an appointment by which he was to make a telephone call exactly at midnight.

At the appointed time he went to the back room and lifted the receiver from the telephone just as a clock in a speakeasy he owned began striking midnight. Mann stood directly in front of a window, a light throwing his shadow on the window shade to form the assassin's target. Then came the blast and flash intended to carry death to him. Because he sat down as the shot was fired, the bullet struck him in the neck instead of the abdomen, where it evidently had been aimed.

U. S. PREPARES TO DEPORT 250 CAPONE ALIENS

Mangano, Belcastro and Volpe Held Smuggling Ring's Leaders.

PERIL TO IMMIGRANTS IS CITED BY AGENTS

Often Forced Into Crime, Says Garsson; Secrecy Veils Round-Up.

Chicago, Nov. 15 (A.P.).—Government agents, ferreting into the various subsidiaries attributed to the Capone organization, have smashed a well-organized smuggling ring, it was revealed today.

About 250 aliens, most of them menials who manned the alcohol vats and performed like duties, have been listed for deportation along with heads of the ring, Tony Volpe, James Belcastro and Lawrence Mangano.

The agents have been unobstrusively engaged in the investigation for several months, according to Murray W. Garsson, attache of the United States Department of Labor. At the same time, Garsson said, progress has been made toward breaking up several other Midwest smuggling rings.

Would Protect Immigrant.

The agents lived quietly in the foreign quarters of the city for weeks before making arrests. Then began a series of sorties in which as many as 200 persons were seized in one night. Those able to give satisfactory accounts of themselves were released, but many were held for deportation.

The desire to rid the Nation of criminals is not the only reason for the deportation drive, the agents said. The Government also wishes to protect the immigrant himself from unscrupulous smugglers.

"Many of the poor immigrants enter the country without knowing they are breaking the law," Garason said. "They give the smuggler as little as $500 or as much as $5,000 to bring them across the border from Canada—a favorite smuggling route in recent years—and believe it to be the regular procedure.

Smuggling by Plane.

"But after they reach Chicago or some other Midwest city, they often wish they were back home. The smugglers blackmail them with threats of exposure and prison, often extorting every dollar they can earn and forcing them into crime. We even hear of cases in which aliens are killed by smugglers who promise them safe consort across the border, collect their fees, and decide not to go through with the bargain."

One of the smugglers seized, Garsson said, is Gerald Francis, of Detroit, who allegedly operated two large airplanes, each capable of carrying twelve persons across the border from Canada. Garsson said that Francis, with an accomplice in Canada known as "Black Paul" Killoff, carried scores of immigrants illegally into the United States.

Coast Guard Gets Big Liquor Cargo

Captures Canadian Speedboat in Spite of a Smoke Screen.

New London, Conn., Nov. 15 (A.P.).—The Canadian speed boat Gamecock, of Yarmouth, N. S., loaded with 1,200 sacks of liquor, was seized last night 11 miles southeast of Block Island Light, by a Coast Guard destroyer from the local base, it was announced tonight.

The eight members of her crew were arraigned tonight before United States Commissioner Russell H. Corcoran and held for another hearing November 30. Harris Walters, captain, and Robert Smith, supercargo, were held in $3,000 bonds, while the others were held in $1,500.

The vessel was sighted running without lights, Coast Guard officers said, and ordered to stop. Instead, she turned, threw out a smoke screen, and started to flee. However, she submitted readily to capture when the destroyer opened fire.

Assailant of Girl Escapes From Jail

T. R. Dodson, Under 25-Year Sentence, Saws Bars of Culpeper Lock-Up.

Special to The Washington Post.

Culpeper, Va., Nov. 15.—Sawing his way through two sets of supposedly case-hardened steel bars, Teddy R. Dodson, held in the Culpeper County Jail under a 25-year sentence for attempted criminal assault on Miss Adelaide Emley, Washington society girl, made his escape some time after 11 o'clock last night. Another prisoner, David Perryman, escaped by the same route.

Dodson, who was being held pending an appeal from the sentence, sawed out a bar beside his cot.

Three other prisoners escaped from the jail in the same manner about six weeks ago.

Davis Urges Old Basis In Delegate Selection

Present Congress Is Held Proper Ratio For 1932 Representation.

(Associated Press.)

In a decision which may affect decisively the complexion of the 1932 Democratic national convention, John W. Davis held yesterday delegates should be chosen on a basis of the present Congress rather than the new congressional apportionment.

Mr. Davis, himself the 1924 presidential candidate and a former president of the American Bar Association, gave this interpretation of the 1928 convention resolution defining the selection of delegates at the request of Jouett Shouse, executive director of the committee. The question involves 32 States.

"Should the committee determine to adopt this interpretation," Mr. Davis said, "I think it would be acting not only in accord with the resolution but following the course least calculated to create confusion and controversy."

In making public Mr. Davis' letter, Democratic headquarters emphasized that final determination of representation in the next convention—a question troubinig leaders of both parties—rests "entirely in the hands of the Democratic national committee, which is due to meet next January."

Before this date arrives, Republican leaders will already have decided Halts in Flight to South America at Request of Stimson.

10 PERSONS INJURED IN ANTI-FASCIST RIOT

Government, Ignoring Foes' Protests, Plans Honors to Italian Official.

(Associated Press.)

Foreign Minister Grandi, of Italy, will be flown from New York to Washington today by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh. The State Department made the announcement last night.

Col. Lindbergh had flown South yesterday as far as Savannah before turning back suddenly without revealing his plans. He had intended going to Florida to fly the air liner, American Clipper, on its initial mail-and-passenger trip to South America.

A few hours after he had passed over Washington, stopping at Bolling Field only long enough to take on gasoline, the department revealed that Secretary Stimson had arranged for him to speed the Italian Minister to the Capital.

State Department's Reason.

Signora Grandi will also be brought here by the plane.

Col. Lindbergh will fly the plane, Caribbean Clipper, of the Pan-American Airway Lines.

The State Department said the changed plans for bringing Grandi to Washington was attributable to the delay which he had encountered because of storms on the ocean.

"It now appears," the State Department said, "that the vesel on which Signor Grandi and his party are traveling has been delayed by bad weather in the Atlantic. As a result his reception upon arrival is modified.

"The American Government is very happy to be able to place at the disposal of our guests its foremost pilot and the most recent product in the development of transport aviation. It not only fittingly expresses our friendship and good will but allows the fulfillment of Signor Grandi's expressed desire to greet the President the day of his arrival in the United States."

Grandi Accepts Invitation.

Secretary Stimson has already received a cable from Grandi accepting the invitation to fly to the Capital. In a message to the Italian foreign minister, Stimson said:

"There is ample room for yourself, Signora Grandi and all of the members of your party (aboard the airship). An early reply from you would be greatly appreciated.

"I regret that you have been encountering such unfavorable weather. (Signed) "STIMSON."

Grandi replied by wireless through Ambassador de Martino of Italy. He said:

"I beg your excellency to tender to Mr. Stimson the expression of my heartfelt and profound gratitude for what he has telegraphed me. I am exceedingly happy to accept all that has been arranged, which I consider a quite exceptional honor and satisfaction. My wife will accompany me."

Lindbergh's South American flight will be delayed about 48 hours.

The full honors customary for a visiting statesman awaited Foreign Minister Grandi in the Capital last night as America's highest officials prepared to welcome him. Meanwhile the American Government and the Italian Embassy ignored a movement to protest the Government's reception of the minister.

In a statement, the newly formed international committee for anti-Fascist protest said it would petition President Hoover today against American support for "Fascist policies."

The statement termed the State Department's preparations to protect Grandi as "ridiculous or embarrassing." It denied any intention by the committee to resort to violence during the minister's visit.

Hoover Prepares for Talks.

The minister will bring with him to the Capital today certain well-defined ideas on the complex European questions he desires to discuss with President Hoover and Secretary Stimson during his four-day stay in the Capital. These conferences will

ROOSEVELT TO MEET SMITH IN SECLUSION

Governor and Predecessor Will Talk This Week on Unrevealed Topics.

New York, Nov. 15 (A.P.).—The Times says Gov. Roosevelt and former Gov. Smith will meet "in secluded conversation at luncheon one day this week, prior to Roosevelt's departure for a holiday at Warm Springs, Ga."

While no public announcement of the conference has been made, the paper says, it was learned it was sought by Gov. Roosevelt, prominently mentioned as the possible Democratic candidate for President next year, and "not by his predecessor in office."

"The information available did not specify the time when the two would meet," the paper adds. "It is assumed that this will depend upon the time necessary for the governor to wind up his work on next year's budget and clear his desk in preparation for his trip South."

It says Mr. Smith, the Democratic presidential candidate in 1928, received the governor's invitation in a letter from Albany last week-end.

The Herald-Tribune says the conference between Mr. Smith and Mr. Roosevelt will be held in Albany on Tuesday or Wednesday.

Executives to Talk With Rail Workers

Willard Will Head Group to Confer With Employes on Jobs and Hours.

Cleveland, Ohio, Nov. 15 (A.P.).—The Railway Labor Executives Association, representing 21 railroad labor organizations, will meet with a committee of nine railroad presidents, headed by Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore & Ohio, in New York next Thursday afternoon, D. B Robertson, chairman of the association, announced here tonight.

Robertson said he received a reply from Mr. Willard accepting the invitation of the labor executives' association for a joint meeting to discuss relief of unemployment, shorter working days and any other subjects the railroad presidents might desire to bring up.

GARDINER ROW LAID TO NAVY PROFITEERS

Secretary of Antiwar Group Asserts Battleships "In for Bad Time at Geneva."

Charges that the recent attack by William H. Gardiner, president of the Navy League, on President Hoover was inspired by interests which would profit financially from a big Navy were made last night by Frederick J. Libby, executive secretary of the National Council for the Prevention of War, speaking at first session of the 1931-1932 forum of the Friends Meeting House.

Mr. Libby asserted that Gardiner's charge that President Hoover was "abysmally ignorant" of Navy matters was not merely a declaration emanating from the Navy League alone but had come "from the same crowd that sent William B. Shearer to Geneva to try to disrupt things there; shipbuilders, and so forth."

Outcome of the controversy with what he termed as its discrediting of Gardiner, was seen by the speaker as indicating that public opinion is in favor of limitation and reduction of armament.

Citing Navy costs, both for production and maintenance, Mr. Libby declared that "battleships are in for a bad time at Geneva," and that the taxpayers of the Nation will demand limitation of naval armament, followed by an actual reduction.

He added that public confidence in the efficacy of battleships has been destroyed by the advent of airplanes. Referring to preparations to use bacteria and gas as weapons in future wars, Mr. Libby pointed out that "you can't limit the number of germs one enemy may shoot at another. The only answer is to bar such weapons entirely."

Pointing out that neither France nor Italy has built any new battleships in many years, and that England appears willing to reduce its navy, Mr. Libby declared that the course taken by the United States

The bills will be sold to the highest bidder and redeemed February 24 at face value.

Man Twice Struck by Cars In Two Months Found Dead

Thomas Cleveland, 67 years old, employe of the Washington Terminal Co., was found dead last night in a rooming house at 744 Sixth street northwest, possibly from injuries received when struck by two automobiles in the last two months.

Coroner Joseph D. Rogers will hold an inquest today to determine cause of his death. Cleveland was found huddled in a corner in the rooming house by the proprietor, Mrs. Lacey Whitfield. He was pronounced dead by a Casualty Hospital interne.

Police said Cleveland was struck by an automobile at Fifth and I streets northwest September 16, receiving injuries of the head for which he was treated at Sibley Hospital and later at Emergency Hospital. The car was operated by Ivory C. Haines, 1821 New Jersey avenue northwest according to police.

November 7, police said, Cleveland was struck by an automobile at Sixth and H streets northwest, operated by Carrie A. Straus, 426 Rittenhouse street northwest. He was treated for head injuries at Casualty Hospital.

ADVERTISERS OPEN CONVENTION TODAY

Wardman Park to Be Scene of 3-Day Session; Will Dine Tonight.

Executives and representatives of the Nation's largest business corporations, which expend in excess of $300,000,000 in national advertising annually, will convene at the Wardman Park Hotel this morning for the twenty-second annual meeting of the Association of National Advertisers.

Prominent advertisers, business leaders and economists will appraise business conditions and prospects during the three days' session. Today's meeting will be attended by publishers and representatives of advertising agencies, but the two following days will be closed except to members.

Lee H. Bristol, of the Bristol-Meyers Co., and president of the association, will preside at the opening session at 9:30 o'clock this morning. Cliff Knoble, of the Chrysler Motor Co., chairman of the entertainment committee, has arranged for a number of special addresses. Dr. Virgil Jordan, economist of the McGraw-Hill Publishing Co., will appraise the general business situation.

The association believes that through national advertising and its resultant effect of reviving public confidence, business will emerge from its present inactive condition.

At the afternoon discussions today rate reductions will be the focus of attention, from the points of view of both the advertiser and the agency. President Bristol will speak for the advertisers. The position of the agencies will be presented by Thomas L. Ryan, of the Pedlar and Ryan Agency, of New York City.

The annual dinner will be held at 7:30 o'clock tonight at the hotel. This will be a get-together with no speeches. There will be an entertainment program by the Columbia Broadcasting Co.

British Sailor Is Hurt In Sudden Lurch of Cab

Cyril Johnson, 18 years old, attached to the British warship H. M. S. Delhi at anchor at the navy yard, was treated for lacerations of the face and neck at Emergency Hospital last night. The injuries were said to have been received when Johnson, who was riding with several other British sailors in a taxicab, was thrown against a window of the vehicle by a sudden lurch.

He returned to his ship after his wounds were dressed.

Bridge Trophy Won By Knickerbockers

Cavendish Team Beaten by 1,235 Points; Lenz and Culbertson Agree.

New York, Nov. 15 (A.P.).—The Knickerbocker Whist Club team tonight won the contract bridge tournament for the Vanderbilt Cup, defeating a Cavendish Club team by 1,235 points in a play-off of a tie resulting from the regularly scheduled play.

In a battle of forcing bids, slams and finesses over 32 boards, the Knickerbocker team came from behind to win the famous cup donated by Harold S. Vanderbilt, who lost his chance for the trophy when his team won only one match in a series of six played Saturday afternoon and night.

The much-heralded Ely Culbertson-Sidney Lenz contract bridge match will be held between December 7 and January 15. Mr. Culbertson met Mr. Lenz at a luncheon today and they signed the contract calling for four sessions each week until 150 rubbers are completed.

LEAGUE CONSIDERS ASIATIC ROW TODAY

Chinese position was said in authoritative circles to be:

"We can no longer be satisfied with mere promises, but expect the council to take some action to restore the status quo ante in Manchuria."

The problem was described as involving the finding of a settlement which would be acceptable to public opinion in Japan and to the Japanese government, and which will involve withdrawal of Japanese troops to agreed positions along the South Manchurian Railway.

Tokyo, Nov. 15 (A.P.).—Japan's attitude toward the meeting of the league council in Paris tomorrow was summed up by a spokesman for the foreign office tonight in these words, "The league can not save its face at the expense of Japan."

Coming from a conference with Foreign Minister Shidehara, he emphasized Japan's position in a calm deliberate voice, more eager to talk of the council's session than of the press dispatches to the effect that Foreign Commissar Litvinoff had warned the Japanese Ambassador that another Sino-Japanese clash might endanger the operations of the Chinese Eastern Railway.

(Associated Press.)

America's experienced mingler in European affairs, Ambassador Charles G. Dawes, will labor without last-minute instructions as the League of Nations Council meets today to seek peace in embattled Manchuria.

His probable course of action had been fully defined by Secretary Stimson previously by transatlantic radio telephone and by cable.

In general, the United States will lead its efforts to bring Japan and China together in a compromise for ending hostilities.

For several days Secretary Stimson has been optimistic of the success of such an attempt, having noted what he believes is a more conciliatory attitude on the part of Japan.

He will keep in touch with Gen. Dawes constantly during the league council's sessions, using the telephone frequently. A newly installed apparatus enables ten of his assistants to listen in at the same time.

Alexandria Church Plans Reception.

Members of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Alexandria, will hold a parish reception Wednesday evening in the Norton Memorial, when Bishop Coadjutor Goodwin will be guest of honor and will give an address on his experiences in the diocese. Mrs. L. H. Dudley is chairman of a committee of members from the Woman's Auxiliary, Section B, and the Rector's Aid Society, in charge of the affair.

gram. The parade, consisting of motorized sections, hundreds of bicyclists and thousands of marchers, visited the Japanese military headquarters, the consulate general, the Shinto shrine and the monument to the victims of the Russo-Japanese war where placards reminded, "lest we forget."

A Japanese military post near here reported that two Europeans, believed to be Britishers, had been seized and held by Chinese bandits in the vicinity of Hsimintun, where they had gone to hunt. Their Chinese guides, wounded, returned with the tale.

Answer to League.

The disposition of Japanese troops, who were holding communication systems in South Manchuria with an iron grip tonight as the League of Nations Council was about to reconvene, provided Japan's unmistakable answer to the league's request that its troops be withdrawn inside the South Manchurian Railway zone before tomorrow's meeting of the council in Paris.

The Japanese were reported to be dominating the governments of Liaoning and Kirin Provinces with sizable detachments in three areas outside the South Manchurian Railroad zone. The Japanese force in Manchuria, which reached a maximum of 13,600 shortly after the Mukden coup of September 18, according to an official statement, was undiminished, except for about 200 killed or seriously wounded.

The Japanese high command, instead of decreasing the total force, was assembling a mixed brigade from the Eighth Division at Hirosaki, in Japan proper, for dispatch to Manchuria to replace a brigade from the Korean garrison, which had reinforced the Manchurian garrison.

Thought to Be Hiding.

Henry Pu-Yi, who, as Hsuan Tung, once was China's boy emperor, was thought to be hiding in the Mukden home of one of the numerous Manchu princes tonight, but chances of a rumored Monarchist restoration seemed remote.

Inquiries in Japanese and Chinese quarters alike failed to confirm rumors that he had returned secretly to the capital of his fathers to be enthroned as monarch of the Manchurian realm, independent of Peiping and Nanking.

He might be seeking personal safety, instead of a throne, it was suggested by some sources.

Commenting on the Monarchist rumors, Count Yasuya Uchida, president of the South Manchurian Railway, said plans of Chinese authorities for reestablishmment of peace and order in Manchuria contained no place for the youthful Mr. Pu-Yi.

Reports of the former emperor's presence in Mukden were given credence in well-informed quarters. It seemed well established that he left Tientsin after the outbreak of rioting there a week ago.

A background of mystery and rumor also has been steadily weaving here in recent weeks for a Monarchist drama that may never eventuate.

Tokyo, Nov. 15 (A.P.).—Negotiations looking toward a ten-day truce between the Chinese and Japanese armies in the Nonni River sector of Manchuria were reported today to have failed and Gen. Mah Chan-Shan was said to be planning a general attack tomorrow at dawn.

The Rengo News Agency said in a dispatch from Harbin that the Japanese representatives, Consul Shimizu and Maj. Hayashi, had been unable to conciliate Gen. Mah and had returned to Harbin, closing the consulate at Taitsihar.

Offensive Reported Planned.

Chinese sources in Harbin said the Chinese commander would take advantage of a thick fog and launch a strong offensive against Gen. Honjo's troops to illustrate his repudiation of the Japanese warning to evacuate his position by November 25. He was said to consider that his withdrawal would be contrary to Chinese interests.

The number of military incidents provoked by Chinese soldiers and bandits since the outbreak of hostilities in Manchuria was listed in an official statement today at 964, exclusive of battles, and the number of fatalities was placed at 488.

These incidents were said to comprise attacks on Japanese armored trains, the burning of Chinese and Korean warehouses and farm houses and the ransacking of native villages. The victims were identified as 305 Chinese citizens, 133 Koreans, 15 Japanese soldiers, 3 Japanese policemen, 4 Japanese citizens, 27 Chinese policemen of pro-Japanese sympathies and 1 British Indian.

take place between the many formal functions arranged in his honor.

President Hoover has already studied in broad outline the matters which he expects to come up at the White House talks. He is ready to assure the minister that the United States will go as far as is consistent with American policies to help untangle Europe's problems.

There is only speculation on the extent to which their exchanges of views can be welded into definite actions. The general belief in official and diplomatic circles is that the greatest benefit to be derived from the talks will be a clearer understanding of the position each has taken on the difficult political and economic questions involved.

Key in German Problems.

Minister Grandi recently visited Germany and studied closely the problems of that nation. He feels that solution of Germany's problems is fundamental to the problem of relieving all Europe from the animosities and oppressions growing out of the World War.

He will have the full support of President Hoover in his stand for decreased armament budgets. Likewise, he will find full agreement with the President in his hope for closer economic cooperation. Italy has stabilized its currency and wants to maintain the gold standard.

While the President is favorable to the fullest possible measure of economic cooperation with Europe, he would reject any suggestions looking toward the cancellation of war debts and reparations. The President looks upon the question of economic strain as one requiring temporary relief, but one in which Europe must take the initiative. His plan for a one year's moratorium on intergovernmental debts was designed to lift temporarily the burden from nations weighted heavily with obligations.

Mr. Hoover will listen attentively to the foreign minister's ideas on treaty revisions. The minister is understood to favor a revision of the Versailles Treaty, to which the United States was not a party. The American Government realizes that the treaty has created sore spots in Europe, but that the problem of revision is one solely for Europe.

May Start From Ship's Side.

New York, Nov. 15 (A.P.).—With Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, America's premier flying hero, as his pilot, Dino Grandi will fly to Washington tomorrow in a 45-passenger flying boat.

The flying boat, the Caribbean Clipper, is the newest four-engine craft of the Pan-American Airways System, of which Col. Lindbergh is technical adviser.

The Italian statesman will board it immediately after his arrival in New York Harbor, at noon tomorrow, on the steamship Conte Grande.

As an added gesture of good will toward Signor Grandi, it was planned, if possible, to have Col. Lindbergh lift the big flying boat, with the Italian dignitary and his party aboard, from the waters of the harbor at the foot of the Statue of Liberty.

Should conditions be such as to make that impractical, Col. Lindbergh will take off from the foot of Seventy-fourth street in Bayridge, Brooklyn, or, as a last alternative, from North Beach Airport.

Due at Quarantine at 11.

The Conte Grande is due at Quarantine about 11 a. m., and it was planned to transfer Signor Grandi and his party of about a dozen persons, including Signora Grandi, to the cutter Manhattan immediately. The party, together with a half dozen representatives of the American State Department, will then board Col. Lindbergh's airplane as soon as possible.

Although it was considered possible the party might enjoy a light luncheon before boarding the Caribbean Clipper, it was said that it was more likely they would not eat until arriving in Washington, a flight which is expected to take about two hours.

State Department representatives, who came here to make final arrangements, said it was doubtful if Col. Lindbergh could take off before 12:30 p. m.

The Caribbean Clipper now is at Bridgeport, Conn., and will be flown here early in the morning by Capt. Boris Sergievsky.

Brief Stop for Lindbergh.

The famous aviator, termed the American Ambassador of Good Will without portfolio after he made his historic solo flight to Paris in 1927, will stay in Washington little longer than the time necessary to turn his distinguished passengers over to United States diplomatic officials.

The company assured the 34 passengers who had booked on the American Clipper that they might at their option either proceed on the scheduled trip Tuesday aboard the company's Commodore flying boat or remain over in Miami two days as guests of the company, then proceeding on the American Clipper Thursday morning with Col. Lindbergh as pilot.

"All special 'first flight' mail will be held over for the American Clipper Thursday. The regular airmail for South American and intermediate ports will be dispatched per schedule on Thursday."

A group of Communists today stampeded an audience of 1,000 antifascists gathered in a downtown hall to protest the coming of Signor Grandi to the United States.

Before the disturbers were evicted, a dozen persons were injured in 10 minutes of fighting with chairs and sticks.

Police reserves helped quell the disturbance. The anti-Fascists had obtained legal permission for the demonstration.

The trouble started just after a resolution had been adopted to send a telegram of protest to President Hoover. A Communist asked permission to speak while a collection was being taken. He was hissed down, but about 40 of his companions sprang to their feet and chairs began to fly.

The injuries consisted chiefly of scalp cuts and bruises.

S. S. Conte Grande, Nov. 15 (A.P.).—Dino Grandi, Italy's foreign minister, will land on the American shore tomorrow full of enthusiasm and with what he calls "an open mind and confident relief in the world's quick and sure recovery."

Although the Conte Grande left Naples three hours late and lost four hours more in rough weather, it appeared certain tonight it would reach quarantine at 11 a. m. tomorrow, scarcely an hour later than its schedule called for.

"I long for a sight of New York's famous skyline," Signor Grandi said. "It has become a sort of symbol to the Old World of America's rising greatness and its constant effort to improve and develop.

"I look forward with the keenest pleasure to talking with President Hoover about many things that can be discussed, I hope, with eventful profit to the world.

"As I often have said, I bring no plan and no national problems. I do bring an open mind and a desire to contribute my knowledge to Europe's difficulties.

Laval Results Valuable.

"We in Italy have followed with most cordial sympathy the visit of Premier Laval to President Hoover, attributing the highest value to that event and considering it as most auspicious for achievement of those ends for which we all are striving.

"Italy, as Secretary Stimson learned, has much the same view as the United States on most of the problems of this crisis.

"Italy has done many things in the last two years to enable her to weather the world storm and she has kept the lira solidly based on the gold standard.

"Italy, therefore, feels able to speak of European conditions from the point of view of general interest and is seeking general world improvement as the surest method for improving her own situation."

The foreign minister was tanned, vigorous and rested today and Signora Grandi was in excellent health and spirits. Both proved themselves splendid sailors and their friendliness was remarked by others on the boat.

Signora Grandi was curious to see for herself all the interesting things the minister had told her about America and he was curious to see the many changes since he last visited the United States. He sailed from New York just six years ago today after having taken part in the Italian war debt settlement.

A reception to Dino Grandi, Italian minister for foreign affairs, will be given by members of the Overseas Writers at the Carlton Hotel tomorrow afternoon at 4:30 o'clock.

Platt Sees Growth Of Social Forces

Once Secretary to Gov. William Sulzer Talks to Capital Open Forum.

Chester C. Platt, one-time secretary to former Gov. William Sulzer of New York and proprietor of the Times, Batavia, N. Y., told the Washington Open Forum, in a lecture last night at 1410 G street northwest, that he expected to see the gradual socialization of basic industries in this country. He also spoke with favor of the single tax and the views of Henry George.

Platt, who has visited Europe several times and lectured widely in this and other countries, deprecated what he regarded as "Ramsay Macdonald's abandonment of his ideals." He severely censured Tammany Hall and adverted to the impeachment of Gov. Sulzer in 1913, when Tammany Democrats and organization Republicans in Albany cooperated in the task of removing Sulzer. President Linn A. E. Gale, of the Open Forum, was then, it was remarked, a clerk in the Legislature under Sulzer, with Platt serving as the governor's secretary.

Morris Talpalar, Richard F. Paige, Leland Barton, Mrs. Myrtle de Montis, Harlan E. Glazier and others made brief remarks. Capt. J. W. Stein addressed the meeting on the membership drive now under way.

FEDERAL EDUCATION DEPARTMENT URGED

Committee Asks Secretary in President's Cabinet; Support Is Seen.

(Associated Press.)

A far-flung reversal of Federal educational policy was recommended to President Hoover yesterday by his National Advisory Committee on Education, comprised of 31 leaders of learning.

Calling for a right-about-face of tendencies toward increasing Federal power over State educational affairs, the committee urged also the creation of a Department of Education with a secretary in the President's Cabinet.

He would stand as "a spokesman for the American spirit and method in education," close to the ear of the President, but stripped of power to control State processes.

Dr. Charles R. Mann, of Washington, chairman of the committee, last week deposited the two-year study on the President's desk. It was made public yesterday through the White House.

Complexity Pointed Out.

The committee found the Government engaged in multitudinous educational activities, in which "a bewildering sense of unnecessary complexity still remains."

The report, labeled "Federal Relations to Education," asserted without a comprehensive policy the present Federal educational situation "can not be greatly improved." It laid out a nine-point program stressing particularly the Federal relationships with the various States. This was approved by a vote of 45 to 6. Among the recommendations were:

Amendment of existing laws "which give or tend to give the Federal Government and its agencies power to interfere with the autonomy of the States in matters of education."

Enactment of no new laws giving Federal financial aid to the States "in support of special types of education."

The making of all future grants "in aid of education in general, expendable by each State for any or all educational purposes as the State itself may direct."

Extended Inquiry.

The conduct of an extended inquiry of educational finance.

Continuation of the "special aid" now given for specific purposes until this inquiry is completed.

A restriction of Federal audits on expenditure of these moneys to the audit made by the Treasury Department; an increased appropriation for Federal educational research, and a limitation of Federal emergency aid.

Congressional support for at least part of the committee report is already assured. Chairman Reed of the last House education committee yesterday praised it, approving particularly the recommendation for a secretary and department of education. He said he would reintroduce his bill calling for this step.

Third is James Pierson, 33 years old, 638 D street northwest, who admits fracturing Earl Lingfield's skull in an argument over a cab fare. Lingfield, who lived at 1831 Ninth street northwest, died.

WATERWAY TREATY SEEN BY CHRISTMAS

Senate Ratification Would Permit Early Start on Actual Work.

Detailed discussions between the American and Canadian governments over the gigantic proposal for turning the St. Lawrence River into a ship channel from the Atlantic to the Great Lakes have begun.

The State Department disclosed yesterday that the two countries actually got down to business Saturday by exchanging views here as to the allocation of the necessary engineering structures and the division of costs of the work to be done in the international section.

This is a 48-mile stretch from Ogdensburg, N. Y., east to a point opposite Cornwall, Ontario.

The power phases of the vast development also were discussed. The distribution of the millions of horsepower that would be produced as a by-product is a basic problem of the development.

Slight Concession Seen.

For the United States it has political complications with New York State, which claims its right to the water power. The National Administration has carefully refrained from conceding the point.

A slight concession to New York was seen in the announcement of the State Department that in Saturday's conference "It was stated by the representatives of both countries that they proposed to keep in touch with the respective provincal and State authorities in the consideration of the power features of the development."

As a definite step toward obtaining agreement on the general form of development of the $880,000,000 navigation project, Secretary Stimson and William D. Herridge, Canadian minister, made arrangements for the immediate reconvening of the joint engineering board.

Treaty to Be Drawn.

This group, consisting of United States army engineers and Canadian experts, will attempt to agree as to the best method of procedure in the international section. When a joint board reported back in 1926, the Canadian and American members disagreed. The former held out for two dams as flood protection while the American engineers thought one would be better.

The conference marked the beginning of negotiations which the two countries agreed October 8 to undertake "immediately." Unless the discussions strike a snag, officials here expect a formal treaty covering the project will be drawn up by about Christmas ready for presentation to the Senate for ratification.

This would permit an early start on the actual work.

Hibernating Money Is Scored by Klein

Holds Hoarding to Blame for Thousands Being Out of Work.

(Associated Press.)

Hibernating dollars loafing on the job because of their owners' desire to have them to look at are believed by Assistant Secretary Klein of the Commerce Department to be keeping work from thousands of persons.

Speaking last night over a national radio hook-up, Klein scored the hoarder as one who is cheating his fellow man out of an earned livelihood. He described hoarding as an "un-American practice."

"There is plenty of money in this country—make no mistake about that—and it is equally clear that much of that money is 'hibernating,'" said Dr. Klein. "It went into hiding originally for the duration of the depression and unfortunately seems now to stay there during the continuance of the owners' timidity and apprehension."

MYSTERY IN DEATH OF JUDGE'S BROTHER

Certificate Held Up Pending Inquiry Into Demise of Charles Higgins.

Charles Higgins, brother of Judge Joseph C. Higgins, of the Montgomery County Orphans Court and father-in-law of Capt. Joseph C. Cissell, counsel to the Montgomery County commissioners, was found dead in his home near Redland, Md., by his son, Eugene, who went to take his father for an automobile ride.

Issuance of a death certificate has been withheld pending a conference today between Dr. Stanley W. Barber, Patrolman Paul W. Watkins and State's Attorney Stedman Prescott. There are a few suspicious circumstances which they believe should be cleared before a burial permit is issued.

Trail of Blood Is Found.

Apparently, Dr. Barber said, Higgins had been dead since Tuesday. Eugene Barber, who lives at Derwood, Md., became worried when his father did not make his usual Sunday call at his home and went to his father's two-room home.

He found him lying in a pool of blood in the kitchen of the house, with a trail of blood leading from the bedroom to the kitchen. His knees were scratched and there was a slight contusion on his head. Whether these were caused by a struggle or in his attempt to summon help after an attack of illness is one of the circumstances the authorities would like to clarify.

There were evidences of a struggle in the interior of the house. Dr. Barber believes, however, that Higgins may have been seized with an internal hemorrhage and in his struggle to obtain assistance may have upset a few furnishings. The contusion on his head may have been caused, Dr. Barber said, by a fall against the kitchen stove.

Last Seen on Tuesday.

He was last seen alive on Tuesday by neighbors, who observed him shucking corn. Dr. Barber believes his death occurred Tuesday night. He was clad only in a night shirt. The body was removed to the undertaking establishment of Roy Barber in Laytonsville, Md.

In addition to Eugene, he is survived by another son, Charles, of Derwood; a daughter, Mrs. Joseph C. Cissell, wife of Capt. Cissell; Miss Kitty Higgins, who is employed by the Montgomery County treasurer's office, and another daughter, who lives in Washington.

Virginia Youth Killed When Auto Overturns

Lexington, Va., Nov. 15 (A.P.).—Melvin Flory, 20, of Mount Crawford, was fatally injured early today when a small coupe with six passengers overturned on a curve south of Lexington early today.

Five other young men in the car, some of them riding in the rumble seat, escaped uninjured. They were enroute from Mount Crawford to New Castle. The car was driven by Cecil Chapman. Flory, the son of C. D. Flory, of Mount Crawford, died of a fractured skull in a hospital here soon after the accident.

Man Found Unconscious From Gas Resuscitated

Linford W. Dyke, 28 years old, 5308 Illinois avenue northwest, was found by his mother, Mrs. Effie Dyke, unconcious in the kitchen of the residence last night with a burner on the gas stove open. A Casualty Hospital physician responded in the institution's ambulance and administered first aid to Dyke, who was later taken to Gallinger Hospital.

The condition of Dyke was said at Gallinger early today to be not serious.

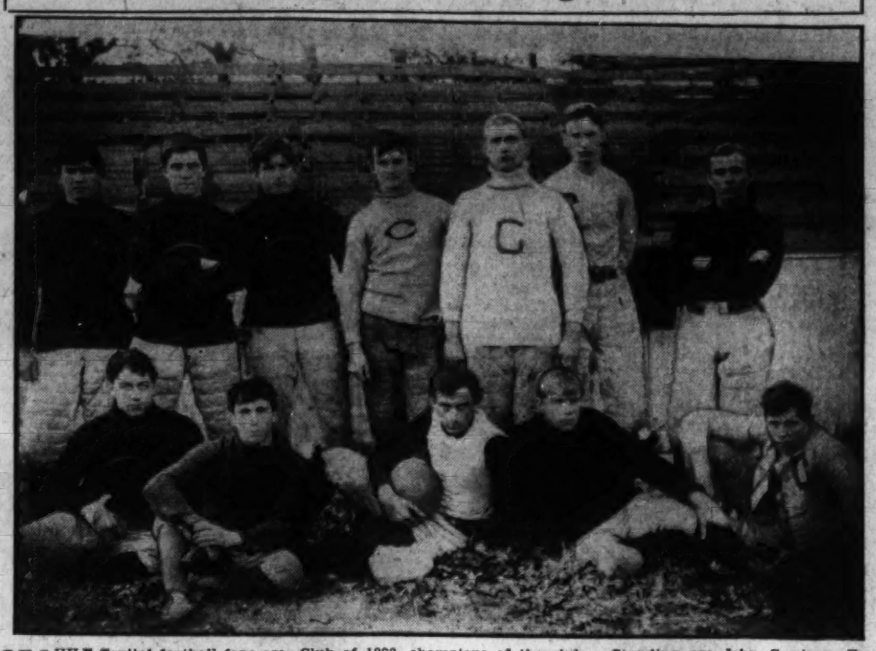
When Washington Was Younger—No. 107



WHILE Capital football fans are watching with interest the present-day operations of teams in the Capital City League and other independent gridiron outfits, it might be well to hark back to another football eleven which in its day was just as famous as the present crop of pigskin adherents.

This was the Canterbury Athletic Club of 1893, champions of the club league of that season. They divided their games between Southeast Lincoln Park and the old American League Ball Park, and they had a large following.

Standing are John Corrigan, Fred Shoffer, Joseph Costinett, Ed Cavanaugh, Clarence Langley, Walter Wilson and John Shipley.

It will be noticed that the team carried only one substitute, for in those days football players "played" the game, instead of receiving relief every few minutes.

HOOVER FELICITATED ON HOME LOAN PLAN

Capper and Firestone Are Among Many Praising Bank Proposal.

(Associated Press.)

While President Hoover split his time yesterday between consideration of his message to Congress and preparation for the coming Foreign Minister Grandi, of Italy, commendation upon his home loan discount bank plan continued to pour into the White House.

Messages came from the East, West and South. Their senders were executives, bankers, real estate men, a senator and many without title. As made public by the White House last night their tenor ranged from pledges of support to suggestions of new steps.

Harvey Firestone, Senator Capper, of Kansas, and Charles G. Edwards, of New York City, were among the first to speak. The tire manufacturer said he had been active in organizing a $15,000,000 credit corporation in Akron, and, therefore, could "more fully appreciate the far-reaching effect of the Federal home loan plan you proposed today."

Firestone Promises Help.

"I assure you of my earnest support," Firestone said, "to carry out and make effective this great and constructive plan."

Capper said he regarded the plan as a "sound and constructive step." He told the President that when carried out, the proposal would "add another to your record of worth-while public service."

"Any such plan," Capper continued, "should provide a means to take care of thousands of small home-owners who are threatened with loss of homes because of mortgages negotiated in more prosperous times coming due in time of temporary unemployment or reduced earnings."

Work on Message Started.

Mr. Hoover started his day early. During the morning he attended church, returning immediately afterward to his study in the Executive Mansion. No guests were invited to either the midday or evening meals.

With only a short time remaining, the President intends to give all time possible to the preparation of his annual message. He started writing it Saturday. The outlining of his budget message, which he considers of equal importance this year with the annual message, remains before him.

He will clarify some of the ideas to be placed in the former during his conversations this week with Signor Grandi. Disarmament and war debts certainly will come up between them.

Housing Body Calls Homes Of United States Obsolete

Report Says New Dwellings Meeting Acceptable Standards of Living Denied Two-Thirds of Population; Mass Production Held Remedy.

(Associated Press.)

The houses of this country are seen as "our largest mass of obsolete and discredited equipment" by an investigating committee of President Hoover's conference on home building and home ownership.

The remedy, the committee thinks, is mass production of houses rather than individual construction of homes. It will make that recommendation when the conference meets on December 2.

It has come to the conclusion that "new houses meeting an acceptable standard of living are too expensive for two-thirds of the population of the United States."

In consequence, the committee said, many families must continue living in dwellings far below present standards of sanitation and decency, "in some cases so far below as to be an actual menace to health and family life."

The reason for this, in the opinion of the committee on large scale operations, is that nobody has found a way of replacing the older structures at a cost as low as the "original one 20 or 50 years ago."

Contrasted with that, the committee said, was the transformation of our standards in the last 10 years where automobiles, radios and lighting facilities are concerned.

Mass production, or large scale operations, the committee believes, must be at least an adjunct in changing the present unsatisfactory situation.

"The application of the best technical experience and business practice to the production, ownership and operation of low cost dwellings of desirable standards, planned so as to provide socially integrated communities," is the committee's definition of large scale operations.

Closely connected with the work of the President's conference for better homes is Mr. Hoover's plan announced Friday for a series of banks to accelerate home building and ease the strain on mortgage loan institutions.

The committee on large scale operations, headed by Alfred K. Stern, director of the Julius Rosenwald Fund, said that it has studied examples of the application of large scale operations in the past.

Among them it named developments by the Bridgeport Housing Co., at Bridgeport, Conn.; the Queensborough Corporation, at Jackson Heights, Long Island; the City Housing Corporation, which built Sunnyside Gardens, Long Island City; the Buhl Foundation, in Pittsburgh; the Metropolitan Insurance Co., on Long Island; projects of the New York Board of Housing; the Marshall Field project and the Michigan Boulevard Gardens Apartments, in Chicago.

Some of them, the committee said, were providing good living conditions at monthly rents as "low as $9 a room," adding that during the present business slump they were showing a safety of investment that was almost unique.

The committee said it wished to emphasize that large scale operations were applicable not only to projects such as model tenements but to almost any part of the housing field.

Fleeing Woman Official Held on Increased Bond

New York, Nov. 15 (A.P.).—Evelyn M. Albus, former deputy county clerk of Jefferson County, Ky., whose bail was set at $30,000 following her arrest as a fugitive, and subsequently reduced to $10,000, was held again in the original sum by Magistrate Overton Harris when arraigned today.

She will be given a hearing tomorrow. Miss Albus, who fled the jurisdiction of Kentucky two months ago, is accused of participating in the misappropriation of public funds.

Democrats Really to Worry If Woman Gets in Senate

—By JOHN J. DALY—

WHEN a women comes to the Senate, 95 stalwart sons of democracy will begin to wonder, and worry, and see in their feverish imaginings the last stronghold of man going into the hands of womanhood.

The Argolian and Roman ladies were not quite so successful as the Americans, who sent one of their number abroad to attack the British Parliament. It was Lady Astor, a Virginia belle, who started the revolutionary tendency, women seeking the places of public honor. As a result of this example, the lower house, on Capitol Hill, is now fairly on the way to become representative of the fair sex; but the great desideratum is the Senate.

There, the ladies of the future will gather, in the places formerly occupied by pompous men. Some of them even now see the handwriting on the wall, just over the dais where the Vice President of the United States sits in magnificent solitude.

* * * *

ONLY 95 seats to be won, and womanhood will have changed the complexion of the Senate from what it is today to what it will be tomorrow, a glorious scene, resplendent with sparkling eyes, gorgeous gowns, dainty doo-dads—and tea tables. Of course, the ladies will bring with them interior decorators to make the old place over. No woman ever yet assailed a citadel without removing the drapes, changing the furniture around, and having a grand and glorious time rearranging the pictures.

The refining influence of womanhood on the Senate will be experienced at the next session; but that is only the beginning, for it is not conceivable that one woman, with all her might, can change the life habits of 95 men. There is the challenge, and that is why the reserve forces will be called upon, so that in a few years there will be a woman for each star in the flag—48 pioneers of American statesmanship, to tie the votes of 48 statesmen remaining under the dome on Capitoline Hill.

Naturally, there are some old-timers who shudder at the thought of this, but they are merely representative of a decaying civilization. The women are on the way, and no force in all America can stop them. The campaign, not one of blatant noise, with the blowing of trumpets and crash of cymbals, started several years ago, when women entered the lists, first as imitators. They cut their hair short, started to smoke cigarettes, and took up the creature comforts once enjoyed exclusively by the male of the species. All that, now, is being pushed behind them. They are riding on the crest of the wave and they can be their own sweet selves. Watch, then, for the invasion of fair femininity on Capitol Hill, and see the change in the national complexion, its customs and its conditions.

* * * *

AS the Senate stands, or will stand at the next session, one woman will rule alone amongst 95 men—relics of a fast receding wave of old-fashioned glory. In the years to come, at the rate the country is moving, the reverse will be pictured: 95 women, with a lone man in the Senate, as a gentle reminder of what future historians will, fatuously, call "the good old days."

It is no great defeat of manhood, naturally, for the handing over of the Senate into the hands of womanhood is merely a gracious act in keeping with the times. These men, about to step down from their pedestals, are not being knocked down and dragged out, nor are they being kicked from their heights. An old philosopher once remarked that a man does not fall from all the heights, saying there are some from which he may descend without falling—as in this instance, when the gentlemen of the United States Senate get up, one by one, and give their seats to the ladies.

Senator, your toga, please!

MRS. HOOVER LEADS DEDICATORY SERVICE

First Lady Wishes Children Happiness at Baptist Alta Vista Home.

In the soft sunshine of an Indian summer afternoon, and standing on a platform under the spreading branches of a giant oak tree, Mrs. Herbert Hoover participated in the dedication of the Baptist Home for Children at Alta Vista yesterday.

With a few words in which she wished the children happiness in their new home, the First Lady led the ceremonies, and later she inspected the $250,000 institution, the children acting as her guides.

"We all hope," Mrs. Hoover said to the boys and girls, "that you'll have a very happy life in the home, and that the home will have a long life after you have gone into the world from it."

The President's wife was dressed in a green suit with a gray fox scarf and a small velvet hat that showed an amber hairpin on the side. She had agreed to attend, but word that she would speak was a surprise.

Judge Kathryn Sellers, of the Juvenile Court, and Daniel C. Roper, of the District Board of Education, also spoke to the crowd of several hundred persons who gathered for the formal opening. State Senator Robert G. Hilton, of Montgomery County, was unable to be present because of illness. A telegram of congratulations from Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes, was read.

Officials of Montgomery County and of the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commisson were guests at the exercises. The county built a mile of road to the home and Senator Hilton secured the passage of a bill in the State Legislature which grants the sanitary commission power to give the home free water and sewage facilities.

There are two large English-style dormitories. The girls' was built with a contribution from Edwin Gould, philanthropist, and the boys' was erected in memory of the late John B. Lord, who donated property in Brookland which was the former site of the home.

The program, which included singing by the children of the home, was in charge of E. Hilton Jackson, chairman of the board of trustees, assisted by other board members, C. Clinton James, George Bryan, Claude Livingston, Charles Werner and Robert N. Miller will determine the action of the whole world, as Japan has expressed a willingness to do as the rest do.

Geneva Success Probable.

He declared that success of the coming disarmament conference is not impossible, but probable, in view of the strength of public opinion in favor of curtailment. He added that the American delegates to the session will be guided entirely by public attitude.

Referring to the present embroglio between Japan and China, Mr. Libby expressed the opinion that the conflict will not go beyond its present stages because "the government of Japan is opposed to the war, and although at present the army seems to be taking the situation into its own hands and ignoring the government entirely, that state of affairs can not continue."

Mr. Libby is to sail soon for France to attend an international peace conference called by Lord Cecil. Another meeting of the forum will be held at the Friends' Meeting House, 1811 I street northwest, Sunday evening, November 29.

TILSON LAYS CLAIM TO G.O.P. NOMINATION

fice. Our party may be outvoted, and the nomination for Speaker may be an empty honor, so far as the Republicans are concerned. Nevertheless, the Republican party has selected me as floor leader, and if I am to be the minority instead of the majority floor leader, during the coming session, it is most important that the party should give me its undivided support.

"The assurances which I have received from Republican members of the House convince me that the party will not divide its forces or its leadership in the face of what is at present a numerically superior opposition. Enough members have already expressed their views on the subject to assure me the nomination for the Speakership at the conference on November 30. In this way Republican leadership and teamwork will be kept intact and ready for the fray. If the Democrats should win the Speakership I shall hope to carry on as minority floor leader, sustained by the united membership of a party which never loses its sense of responsibility to the country, whether it is in the majority or the minority."

a revision of the estate tax and the levying of a gift tax.

A similar program was proposed by Ramseyer last year when it became apparent the Treasury would have almost a billion-dollar deficit with revenue from the income tax decreased many millions.

Leading House Republicans concede that President Hoover and Secretary Mellon have not yet agreed on a method to meet the deficit. Most of them are opposed to borrowing funds for operating the Government, as is being done at the present time.

While some Democrats favor borrowing, most of them feel that if a tax increase is necessary it should come during the Hoover administration when the deficit was created. They contend that if they win in the 1932 elections, the Republicans might pass the responsibility for raising funds to their administration.

CHILDREN'S BUREAU HIT BY DR. MORGAN

Georgetown Dean Believes Socialization of Medicine Encroaches on Rights.

Centralization and socialization of the practice of medicine and the care of mothers and children, particularly if it is centralized in a Federal welfare agency, such as the Children's Bureau of the Department of Labor, was scored as "far more dangerous to lives, liberties and health of our people than any other form of government ownership or operation," by Dr. William Gerry Morgan, dean of the Georgetown University Medical School, who spoke over a Nation-wide radio broadcast yesterday.

He was heard in a broadcast which was sponsored by the Sentinels of the Republic. His subject was "Government Interference in the Home."

"We have in Washington," he said, "no less than five different Federal agencies concerned with the health, education or labor of children. The Constitution does not mention any such power as some of these bureaus attempt to exercise.

"In addition, there is a Woman's Bureau and three home economics bureaus, in as many departments. About all the rights that a citizen has in personal security, personal liberty and private property are and always have been associated with what I call home rights, he stated.

Dr. Morgan charged the committee on the cost of medical care, a Federal agency, with "guessing when it reported in October that the American maternity death rate is about twice that of England and Wales."

"It would be a good idea," he concluded, "to let your representatives and senators know that you prefer to have them safeguard, rather than abolish, the home rights that are the keystone to the arch of freedom."

Former Actress Ends Life by Shot

Mrs. F. R. Buckley, Wife of Western Story Writer, Kills Self in Auto.

Norwalk, Conn., Nov. 15 (A.P.).—Mrs. Frederick R. Buckley, wife of a writer well known for his stories of Western life, killed herself by shooting early today with her husband's revolver while in an automobile with her husband on their way home.

Dr. William H. McMahon, medical examiner, gave a verdict of suicide. He stated that there would be no inquest, and that he had been unable to fix a motive for Mrs. Buckley's act.

She was formerly on the stage playing in drama under her maiden name, Helen Curry, and about fifteen years ago appeared on Broadway in "Blue Flame," "Common Clay" and other productions. Mrs. Buckley leaves a daughter, Faith Ann, aged 9, besides her husband. Her father, Thomas A. Curry, and her brother, Thomas A. Curry, jr., are writers.

DELEGATE SELECTION ON OLD BASIS URGED

this issue. Under their party laws, it is even more complex than that confronting the Democrats. Chairman Fess has called the national committee to meet December 15.

The Democratic statement pointed out that total membership in their next convention will not be affected, since the ratio is two convention delegates for each representative and senator, apart from those of the Territories and dependencies. This aggregate is by the census.

Only the representation of such individual States as either gain or lose representatives by reason of the new apportionment is in doubt.

How States Line Up.

Outstanding among the States in this category are California, Michigan, Texas and Missouri. Under the new apportionment California, by gaining nine representatives, would have eighteen votes more in convention than if the Davis interpretation is adopted. Michigan would have eight more, Texas six more and Missouri six less.

New York, whose governor, Franklin D. Roosevelt, is prominently mentioned for the Democratic nomination, would cast four votes fewer in the nominating assembly if the Davis verdict is adopted than if the reapportioned political map were employed. The same would apply to Ohio, home of Newton D. Baker, and New Jersey, where Gov.-elect A. Harry Moore is another Democratic possibility.

Just the reverse would be true of Georgia, Iowa, Kentucky and Pennsylvania, all of which will elect two less representatives in 1932. Connecticut, Florida, North Carolina, Oklahoma and Washington gained one representative as a result of the 1930 census.

States slated to lose one representative and, consequently, two delegates to future Democratic conventions, include Alabama, Indiana, Kansas, Maine, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Mississippi, Nebraska, North Dakota, Rhode Island, South Carolina, South Dakota, Tennessee, Vermont, Virginia and Wisconsin.

Would Keep 1928 Ratio.

Under the Davis interpretation ten States in the "solid" South would have the same convention strength enjoyed in 1928, instead of losing two delegates as a result of reapportionment.

Added complications in deciding the question of convention representation falls upon the Republican committee because of party rules making votes at the last presidential and congressional elections a determining factor in fixing the number of delegates.

Still another element for consideration by both party organizations in reaching a final decision are legal and party disputes in 16 of the 32 States shifting 27 representatives. These arose over the manner of defining new congressional districts

LARGE HOUSE HEARS BORI AND SYMPHONY

National Orchestra Shows Remarkable Advance in Few Weeks.

The Metropolitan Opera Company of New York lent one of its stellar songbirds, Mme. Bori, prima donna par excellence, to glorify the first popular concert of the National Symphony Orchestra in Constitution Hall yesterday afternoon. And in a stage box, where she was the guest of Mrs. Wilson-Greene, manager of the orchestra, was another Metropolitan star, Lily Pons, applauding the work of her sister artist.

Mme Bori appeared as soloist with the orchestra yesterday through the gift of an anonymous donor.

Not a seat was left in Constitution Hall when Hans Kindler, conductor, walked on the platform to signal for opening notes of the lovely "Overture to Lenore," one of Beethoven's masterpieces.

Only a few measures had been played before the audience realized the remarkable advance the orchestra had made since its first appearance in concert several weeks ago. The effect of many rehearsals was most apparent. There was a balance of instruments, a sureness of attack and a beauty of ensemble tone that can only come when a musical aggregation becomes welded together in the unity of a single purpose.

The string work in this number was particularly fine. The wind instruments have been brought under control also and the audience evinced its pleasure in the number by continued applause.

The diva was greeted with a storm of applause when she appeared, an attractive figure in an afternoon costume of white and smiling her pleasure. With finish and artistic interpretation she sang the aria 'Di vieni non tardar" from the "Marriage of Figaro," by Mozart. Lily Pons, who will sing at the same place today in concert, led the applause that swept the classic hall when the aria was finished.

Bizet's sprightly suite "L'Arleienne," with its four charming movements, gave the orchestra another opportunity to prove its prowess. The Prelude and the Adagietto were exquisitely played, while the other two movements also were well done.

Mme. Bori's last group included several Spanish folk tales and the audience was so enchanted that she had to sing three encores before the music lovers before her would quiet down enough to permit the rest of the program to be played. This was "The Chant Russe," by Moussorgsky, and "Waltz," from Eugene Onegin, by Tschaikowsky, played for the first time in Washington.

The orchestra maintained its high standard in these last two compositions.

PARTY CHIEFS AWAIT ARRIVAL OF JOHNSON

Part Californian Expects to Take in 1932 Campaign Causes Speculation.

(Associated Press.)

—Republican political leaders are looking forward expectantly to the arrival here shortly of Hiram W. Johnson, of California, in the hope he will clarify his intended part in the 1932 presidential campaign.

The senator will receive upon his return this week or next an invitation by some Republican members of Congress to enter the race against President Hoover for the Republican nomination.

This appeal will come from the ranks of the Western Republican Independents who have been in opposition to some of the major Hoover policies, including farm relief and the tariff.

Senator Brookhart, of Iowa, who has proposed Johnson as a presidential candidate of the "Progressives," asserted today that "many of the regulars" also would be found in the Johnson camp should he enter the contest.

Johnson himself has left the politicians guessing since his recent attack upon the Hoover administration for its relations with the League of Nations in the Sino-Japanese dispute and his appeal for repudiation of the administration "at the ballot boxes."

Political leaders have noted as significant the recent entry into the California senatorial race of Representative Swing, a friend of Johnson and coauthor with the Senator of the measure creating the giant Boulder Dam in the Colorado River.

With Johnson and Swing opposing Hoover and Senator Shortridge in the California primary next spring, it is agreed that a real showdown in Republican affairs might be gained. Certainly there is much speculative interest in such a contest.

Ohio Victim Hiccoughs After Attack of Week

Mansfield, Ohio, Nov. 15 (A.P.).—Ira A. King hiccoughed the week out tonight, his stubborn malady resisting every attempt to conquer it.

King, a Mansfield garage operator, now has hiccoughed for seven days despite appliance of rare medical treatment and even old-fashioned remedies.

He has been gradually weakened by the continuance of the attacks.

Physicians today administered musk in hope of relieving Mr. King's condition, but without apparent success. Mr. King's case has attracted wide interest and hundreds of home hiccough remedies have poured in upon his physicians.

CONVENTIONS URGED ON DRY LAW REPEAL

Former Senator Wadsworth Makes Proposal in Open Letter to Fess.

(Associated Press.)

The Republican party was called upon yesterday by James W. Wadsworth, former senator from New York, to sponsor constitutional conventions on prohibition.

Wadsworth made his proposal in an open letter to Senator Fess, of Ohio, dry advocate, who is chairman of the Republican national committee. He explained that he wrote to Fess because his office "may be said to be the clearing house for expression of Republican opinion." Fess dismissed it as "propaganda."

The New York Republican leader's proposition was that Congress submit to conventions of the people in the States an amendment to the Federal Constitution repealing the eighteenth amendment.

By such a party policy, Wadsworth contended, "grave embarrassments to Republican candidates in the next Presidential election would be avoided—especially in those great populous States whose electoral vote is decisive."

The Wadsworth letter followed closely an appeal from Philadelphia Republican leaders to Chairman Fess for an anti-prohibition stand by the national party and it was regarded here as indicative of a determined effort by some of the Eastern wing of the party to force a wet and dry showdown at the national convention.

CANNON HITS SHULER RADIO STATION'S BAN

Bishop Caustic In Attack on Commission's Ruling on Church Broadcasts.

(United Press.)

If Christ were on earth now, the Federal Radio Commission would bar him from preaching over the radio, Bishop James Cannon, jr., said last night in a statement assailing the commission's refusal to renew the license of the Rev. Bob Shuler's station in Los Angeles.

One of the commission's grounds for its action was that Shuler's addresses had promoted "religious strife and antagonism." Christ's preaching would have that effect, too, the bishop said.

He asserted the commission "far exceeded any authority possibly conferred upon it, and its decision is so unwise, revolutionary and un-American as to demand an immediate reversal of such position, or the resignation of the commission."

The Shuler station was licensed in the name of a church of Cannon's denomination, the Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church South, of Los Angeles.

The Radio Commission said the Rev. Mr. Shuler "repeatedly attacked the Catholic Church in his broadcasts."

Of this, Cannon said:

"Has any officer or commission of our Government authority to prevent Protestant ministers from denouncing on the radio the effort of the Romish hierarchy to destroy the eighteenth amendment by selection as President its obedient son, Alfred Emmanuel Smith, on the ground that such attack will serve 'to promote religious strife and antagonism?'

"Has the Radio Commission notified the Roman Catholic priest, Coughlin, of Royal Oak, Mich., that he can not continue on the air because his speeches 'promote religious strife and antagonism?'

"Protestants and Romanists alike have equal rights to use the air to present their views."

WHY

do more and more smokers say:

"I've changed to Chesterfield"

BECAUSE . . .

THEY'RE MILDER. It's the tobaccos! The best tobaccos—the smoothest and mildest that money can buy—go into Chesterfield. Ripened and sweetened in the sunshine . . . cured by the farmer . . . then aged for two years in wooden hogsheads. No wonder you say, "They're so much milder!"

THEY TASTE BETTER. These mild smooth tobaccos are put together exactly right. That's Chesterfield's secret—but millions of smokers agree that the job couldn't be improved! Rich aroma of Turkish and mellow sweetness of Domestic, blended and cross-blended to Chesterfield's own BETTER TASTE.

THEY'RE PURE. Cleanliness and purity, always! Everything that goes into Chesterfield is tested by expert chemists . . . tested thoroughly. The purest cigarette paper made, burning without taste or odor. Sanitary manufacture . . . no hands touch your Chesterfields. They're as pure as the water you drink!

THEY SATISFY. You break open a clean, tight-sealed package. You light up a well-filled cigarette. Yes, sir . . . you're going to like this cigarette—you know that with your very first puff. And right there's where many a smoker changes to Chesterfield. They Satisfy!

A CABINET DUMMY.

Seldom has a body organized to advise the President recommended such a reckless adventure in bureaucracy as that proposed in the report of the National Advisory Committee on Education. The report reeks with inconsistency and contradiction. Apparently the committee made desperate efforts to proceed in opposite directions at the same time. The result is a compromise between two extremes that borders on absurdity.

In defining its policies the committee emphatically states that "political control of the purposes and processes of public education shall remain with the State, territorial, or other regional or local governments." It recalls that the Constitution says nothing about education and that powers not specifically granted to the Federal Government are reserved to the States. Remote control over the schools by central authority is deplored. Congress is called to account for "seriously invading State and local autonomy" by appropriating funds for certain types of education and telling the States how they might be spent. This practice, the committee found, "is not in harmony with the indigenous American spirit of local and decentralized management which has always yielded certain and good results."

Throughout the report the committee reiterates that it is unwise to centralize in the Federal Government the power of determining the social purposes to be served by the schools. It goes into detail to show how remote control "has always led to the evils of bureaucratic unresponsiveness to local and changing needs, to bureaucratic standardization, red tape and delay, and to official insensitiveness to the criticism of far-distant parents and citizens." Then, having laid a perfect background on which to base advice that the Government stop meddling with education, the committee recommends the creation of a department of education with a secretary in the President's Cabinet.

In the first place, the committee finds that "there are national responsibilities for education which only the Federal Government can adequately meet." What are those responsibilities? To set up a central agency for educational research, and to furnish tax money for the States to spend! The Government must not require States to match funds appropriated for educational purposes. It must not specify what such funds may be spent for, or ask the State agencies receiving Federal aid to maintain any standards. Let Uncle Sam confine his efforts to raising money for the States to spend as they see fit. The committee could not have evolved a more perfect combination for irresponsible management of the schools if it had stayed on the job another year.

After it has pointed out all the horrors of centralized control, the committee breaks out spontaneously with a plea for "an official spokesman for education, competent and influentially situated in the Government." Strange as it may seem, one of the functions of this official would be to prevent Uncle Sam from encroaching upon the educational prerogatives of the States. Here the committee manifests remarkable insight into the nature of Government bureaus. The Federal spokesman for institutions wholly under control of the States could spend his time collecting statistics and warning Congress against increasing his own authority.

The nature of this proposed department of education becomes more amusing as one proceeds through the report. It would be built around the present office of education with various other bureaus being transferred to it. But, says the committee, "no regulatory or executive responsibilities should be invested in the department of education by these transfers." Furthermore, the department would have no "legal or financial power and no regulatory or executive authority, direct or indirect, explicit or implied, by which it may control the social purposes and specific processes of education." In short, the committee proposes a dummy for the Cabinet to gratify the vanity of educators.

The committee has wasted a lot of energy in trying to take national politics out of the educational funnel through the small end while opening the large end for unlimited bureaucratic domination of the schools. The chief value of its report lies in the amusement it will arouse in a public that has become accustomed to watching commissions try to stretch their issues in both directions.

CANADA OUSTS THE REDS.

Canada is engaged in a campaign for extermination of Communists which promises to rid that country of every vestige of the Red menace. Seven red leaders have been sentenced to prison and face deportation when their terms expire. A movement is on foot to arrest every one of the 5,000 members of the Communist party as a result of the court's decision that it is an organization conspiring against the government.

Sergt. John Leopold, of the Canadian Royal Mounted Police, exposed the Communist group after associating with it in disguise for seven years. As a result of his efforts the government is fully informed of the plots and conspiracies of the Reds to convert the dominion into a Soviet republic. An organization which plans treason against the government is an outlaw. Hence, the party's property has been confiscated. Communism in Canada may be considered, in the language of Moscow, liquidated.

This aggressive action against a common enemy on the part of Canada puts the United States to shame. In this country the Communist party, which is dedicated to the destruction of the United States by violent and revolutionary methods, is allowed to function side by side with legitimate political parties. It is estimated that there are approximately 600,000 Communists in the United States. In eighteen States they poll a vote of more than 100,000, though 70 per cent of the Communists are aliens and therefore can not vote. Yet this organization is allowed to proceed unmolested with its plans to foment bloodshed.

The congressional committee which investigated Communist activities and propaganda in the United States found that the Government has no way of keeping in touch with the revolutionary movements of the Communists; that Communists enter the United States freely from Russia; that American lads are sent to Moscow for education so that they may more effectively work for revolution in America; and that Communists may violate their oaths of allegiance and still remain American citizens.

That committee recommended that the Communist party should be declared unlawful and forbidden to function in elections. But Congress has done nothing. The Reds participate in an election only to advertise their treason, declaring that they have no faith in the ballot but that they intend to take over the Government by violent means. It is an insult to Americans who go to the polls to list on the ballot this clique of agitators who are under allegiance to a foreign dictatorship. Perhaps the examples of Mexico and Canada in dealing summarily with the agents of Communism may inspire Congress to consider the folly of allowing Soviet Russia to participate in the selection of public servants in this country.

MARYLAND'S CANDIDATE.

Gov. Albert C. Ritchie, of Maryland, is taking his turn under the Democratic presidential spotlight. For several weeks the governor has been making speeches at every opportunity. He is now on a speaking tour in New York and Pennsylvania, discussing subjects of national interest. With the announcement that the Concord Democratic Club will launch a formal drive in behalf of Gov. Ritchie at its Jackson Day dinner on January 8, there is no longer any doubt that the Maryland governor will put in an early bid for the presidential nomination.

Gov. Ritchie is demonstrating unusual strength. In 1924 he was considered an available candidate, and in 1928 he withdrew from the race in favor of Al Smith. He is serving his fourth term as Governor of Maryland. Furthermore, the governor has a large personal following and few enemies. In spite of the fact that he represents only a small State he may step definitely out of the "favorite sons" class at the 1932 Democratic convention.

A conference with Al Smith while he is in New York may have far-reaching influence upon Gov. Ritchie's future. Mr. Smith apparently looks with disfavor upon the prospective candidacy of Gov. Roosevelt. If he decides not to enter the race himself, he may throw his strength behind Gov. Ritchie. The Maryland governor is wet enough to draw unqualified support from the Smith-Raskob group. He is every inch a Democrat and a Southerner. No doubt he would command support throughout the South and would be in no way unacceptable in the North. At present it appears certain that Gov. Ritchie will cut a considerable figure in the 1932 convention.

A few weeks ago the spotlight was turned on Newton D. Baker, former Secretary of War. But Mr. Baker's plans seem to be very indefinite. Hence, a number of groups that are opposed to the nomination of Gov. Roosevelt are turning to Gov. Ritchie as the most formidable candidate against the New Yorker. Since Gov. Ritchie represents the more conservative elements in the party and Gov. Roosevelt is considered a progressive, there is possibility of a sharp contest between them.

WALL STREET'S FALL.

The reputation of no American institution has suffered so much during the last two years as that of Wall street. How that shibboleth of power and wisdom has fallen in public esteem! From the heights of imperious authority it fell with a crash that sounded around the world. From the depths of gloom it rose occasionally on feeble legs to nibble at fractional points of profit or lend its pessimistic wail to help the short sniper.

Wall street, once a leader in business and a sage to point the way to industrial recovery, now comes limping along behind the procession that started while brokers were hiding in their caves of gloom. They emerged to find commodity prices pointing the way to better times. They flocked to the produce exchanges to gather profits from rising prices that they had pronounced impossible.

With the impetus of renewed life in agricultural products the stock exchange has gained temporary activity but greed for half-point profits defeats any attempt to establish a firm footing on a higher level. It will be a long time before American investors again become the speculative sheep they were two years ago. There are millions in banks that will again go into stocks, but there will be more outright buying and much less precarious playing with margins. The burnt children will be more careful and the sucker lists will have to await the coming of a new generation for their next big expansion. Suckers and gamblers there will always be, but one sobering effect of the depression is the recovery of many sane Americans from their wild dreams of miracle riches in the stock market.

THE COLD ENIGMA.

With the passing of the hay fever season and the coming of the heyday of influenza the United States Public Health Service issues a special bulletin on the common cold. It begins with a warning that a cold is something more than a nuisance. In the office, in the factory, and in the school, colds cause more loss of time than any other disease. As the possible forerunner of bronchitis, pneumonia or other respiratory diseases, the cold should be properly cared for at its inception.

In the first place, it should be remembered that colds are both infectious and contagious. The treatment recommended is to stay at home and in bed if possible, where proper care can be administered. Since this is not always practical, nor considered necessary by the patients, they should at least be thoughtful enough to smother coughs and sneezes and use care not to communicate germs to others by direct contact or by handling articles in common use.

Doctors acknowledge the difficulty of avoiding infection when the disease is prevalent. It is readily passed from one person to another, and thus far all efforts to isolate the particular germ responsible for common colds have been unavailing. It defies the finest filters and the strongest microscopes. There is no more effective cure for colds than the ordinary precautions that can be taken at home to prevent complications, namely, proper diet, rest and quiet in well-ventilated rooms. Avoid contact with the victims of colds whenever possible and likewise be considerate of fellow beings when afflicted with the disease.

President Hoover and the members of the '94 Stanford football team were in a "huddle." They probably discussed that signal 19-32, which calls for blocking the interference for a long run.

One of the troubles faced by the unemployed is the problem of convincing their wives that they were at the office.

If a drum corps is symbolic of the spirit of the American Legion, why not have a bagpipe band for Congress?

Probably if we have to raise an army for another war we can explain to the boys that it is purely Occidental.

The slogan of Democrats in their campaign for "Jack" Garner for Speaker is, "What this country needs is jack."

The "Cannon defense fund" proved a dud. The people just would not shell out.

MEMORIAL TO IRVING

By BAILEY MILLARD, in the Los Angeles Times.

In honor of the sesquicentenary of Washington Irving the City of New York, in which he was born, will erect an impressive memorial to the creator of Rip Van Winkle. It will be in the form of a life-sized statue to be set up in a prominent place and flanked with an exedra and balustrades.

It seems strange that the American metropolis should have so long delayed the erection of a memorial to a native son who was the first man of letters from this country to win recognition in Europe. It is unthinkable that this tardiness should be due to the sport Irving made of New York and its founders in his piquant Knickerbocker annals. But I am fairly certain that nobody besides this sprightly humorist ever poked so much fun at old Gotham as he did in his "History of New York from the Beginning of the World to the End of the Dutch Dynasty, by Diedrich Knickerbocker."

We of this day can have but a feeble understanding of the many local quips and quaint allusions made in that odd literary product. Irving began the work as a burlesque on a pretentious disquisition on the history of the city in a guidebook by a Dr. Samuel Mitchell. Then he expanded it and created in it a distinct literary type, the phlegmatic Dutch burgher whose heavy ways the more lively American residents were wont to ridicule—ways which Irving treated with mock solemnity of a rare nature.

I spent the spring and summer of 1905 at Irvington-on-the-Hudson, within an easy walk from Tarrytown, where Irving lived and wrote for years, though he was far more than a decade in Europe. I wandered several times in Sleepy Hollow, the home of old Rip who, while hunting in the Catskills had such strange adventures with elfin folk. I found Sleepy Hollow to be still worthy the name, though different from what it was in the days of the worthy Rip. The difference lay in the nature of the inhabitants. Most of the old Dutch families were hardly remembered there. The place was Yankee to suit George M. Cohan.

Along the three-mile road between Irvington and Tarrytown one views the estates of the Goulds, Shepards, Tiffanys and Rockefellers. Tarrytown itself boasts more multimillionaires than are to be found elsewhere in America. The monthly income of any of these plutocrats probably exceeds the total amount Washington Irving received from his prolix writings, which few read in these times save school children who must recite the "Alhambra" essay, a world-famous classic.

But I don't imagine that any of these opulent residents of Tarrytown, sporting about in their expensive cars and knocking little balls over the grass, had half the fun that dear old Diedrich Knickerbocker had in his seventy-six years of quiet home life and as a traveler, nor have they been as highly honored at home and abroad.

HOLD THE FORT.

Those who run away from care
Find new troubles they must bear.
Those who seek a pang to dodge
Soon with bitterer ills must lodge.
Wheresoe'er the coward hides
Grave anxiety abides.

Those who fear the foes they see
Unto greater dangers flee.
Foolish men who think afar
Peace and true contentment are Merely change the ill they know
For a heavier weight of woe.

There's no safe and sheltered place
Unto which mankind can race
Leaving fretful fear behind.
He who seeks for peace of mind
Will not find it anywhere
Trying to evade a care.

Peace, security and pride
Only with the brave abide.
Those who run from Trouble's blow
Into Failure's camp must go
And must suffer to the end
Hurts that time can never mend.

Will You Dress to Suit Weather or Wait for Weather to Change?

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THERE is an ancient belief that every evil contains within itself the thing that will destroy it, but a depression seems to be an exception.

A certain student of economics, whose reputation is so well established that the better magazines welcome his contributions, declares that no business depression in America ever has ended itself.

In one instance a crop failure in Europe brought relief. America had produced a great surplus, then as now, and the inflow of European gold made business normal within a month after the harvest. In every instance the return of good times was heralded by something unusual.

An unusual happening is necessary to overcome an unusual condition.

If that can be accepted as an economic axiom, why wait for chance to supply the unusual happening? Why not do the unusual thing necessary to bring a return of normal business?

What can be done? Perhaps no man knows. But isn't it true that a cure depends on removing the cause of the malady?

In my town many people are afraid. The bank is an unimportant unit in a great chain system and therefore as safe as a bank can be, but the doubting Thomases will trust no private institution. They take their money to the postoffice and exchange it for savings stamps or bonds.

The postmaster doesn't keep the money in his office safe. It is deposited in the bank, which puts up bonds to protect the deposit, and thus goes back into circulation.

Because people trust Uncle Sam, the money of the timid is brought out of hiding and made useful to everybody.

Perhaps you are horrified by the suggestion that the Government should engage in banking. But doesn't the emergency justify any temporary expedient that will work?

There is more money 'in circulation" now than before the depression. But it isn't circulating. It is out of the banks, but it is hidden and profitless. It is carried in the pockets or concealed in the homes of the millions who distrust banks.

If some emergency measure enabled postoffices to accept deposits as banks do, that money would come out of hiding. The timid would again feel safe. And the assurance of safety would end the mental depression caused by fear.

Maybe it wouldn't work, but if the patient is suffocating for want of fresh air, you can do him no harm by opening a window.

PRO AND CON

Press Comment Upon Acts and Actors in the Great American Show, "Politics."

Cermak in the East.

Brooklyn Eagle.

Early guesses that Anton J. Cermak, mayor of Chicago, had come to New York State to act as a conciliator and make peace between Al Smith and Gov. Roosevelt did not impress practical politicians much and were promptly repudiated by Cermak, himself. Asked whether he came to muster up support for some presidential candidate he said:

"I am not here to muster up anything or anybody, or to muss up anything or anybody."

But Chicago's mayor has had long talks with John F. Curry and with Mayor Walker, as well as with men who are very close to Smith and Roosevelt. Also he has gone over to Jersey City to confer with Frank Hague, the reputed boss of Democratic politics in the State of New Jersey.

Perhaps a safe conjecture is that Mr. Cermak wants the Democratic national convention to be held in his city. Also that he has in the back of his head an impression that Illionis, in the person of James Hamilton Lewis, has a possible candidate, considering the overwhelming victory of Lewis for senator over the daughter of Mark Hanna in the State of Abraham Lincoln. It would be a mistake to treat Mayor Cermak's visit as a negligible incident of preconvention campaigning.

Topeka Capital.

Since the great war adequate financing is not the problem, as a condition to making war, that was formerly supposed. Somehow war is financed. Yet if a nation is not to be threatened with the total ruin of its public and private credit, it needs to consider the financial factor. The fact, therefore, that gold has been leaving Japan pretty steadily since the first threat of an outbreak is a hopeful sign. In the first 30 days following the first skirmish between Japanese and Chinese Japan lost $75,000,000 of her none too ample gold supply. In the last week the flight of gold from Japan has been accelerated, and is now reported to have approximated $300,000,000.

Tariffs and Taxation.

Houston Post-Dispatch.

As Democratic leaders arrive in Washington to map out a legislative program for the forthcoming session of Congress, it becomes increasingly apparent that tariff revision and taxation will be two subjects pushed to the front from the outset.

Among Democrats who will control the House, tariff revision sentiment is becoming stronger and it appears certain that a desperate attempt will be made to push through a tariff measure despite the fact that a presidential veto is a foregone conclusion.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Why Not Organize a Food Kitchen and Make Sure That the Hungry Will Be Fed—Thanksgiving a Mockery If the Needy Are Starved.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The letter inquiring as to the whereabouts in Washington of a food kitchen, appearing in The Post of November 13 and signed, "E. Michaelson," is worthy of serious consideration.

In less than two weeks the country will be celebrating that glorious American holiday, Thanksgiving. Our more fortunate citizens will pay the customary homage to the occasion with some thanks and a great deal of feasting, but how about the children without the price of a bite to eat, to say nothing of a turkey dinner? We know that the Salvation Army, Red Cross, Community Chest and similar organizations make donations of food at this time to as many needy families as their limitations will permit; but that is not sufficient. On Thanksgiving, at least, our National Capital should set a shining example to the United States by supplying a food kitchen at which every single unfortunate soul within the city may secure a meal?

Why can't some recognized organization, or group of organizations, step up and sponsor such a program. For instance, instead of requesting shoppers to fill the gift boxes at our markets with any manner of groceries, why not let the relief experts prescribe a diet for that Thanksgiving meal so that we might make our donations accordingly? The same organizers might sell subscriptions for, we'll say, 25 or 50 cents apiece, specifying right on the slip that the funds procured by this means would be used for the purchase of certain foods for the unemployed dinner. People will give to such a specific purpose much more cheerfully than they will hand out money for indefinite relief, because they derive a particular satisfaction from being able to picture the application of their contributions.

Small tribute it will be to our forefathers, and to our God, if we go to church on this Thanksgiving and come home and go through a dinner from soup to nuts, forgetful of those of our countrymen who are up against it. HUGH HAUGHTON.

Recommendation of the Fine Arts Commission to Abolish All Day Parking Is Strongly Favored.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I am one who was greatly cheered by the recommendation of the Fine Arts Commission, indorsed by Col. Grant, to abolish all-day parking and to restore our streets and roadways to traffic, which after all is their primary function, instead of devoting them to storage purposes.

Some time the fundamental absurdity may become apparent of using a five passenger car an hour or so a day to haul one human being to his office and back and blocking a public roadway with its dead bulk the remaining 23 hours. When the fact has finally become manifest that the so-called parking problem is really a transportation problem, it may not even be beyond American capacity to devise some satisfactory system of public transportation such as virtually every European municipality enjoys.

Our other fundamental absurdity, dignified by the name of "traffic problem," consists of four-fifths empty cars and taxicabs plying along the streets all day.

Until a rational coordinated system of public transportation is established, suggestions for storage garage buildings of the type now being built in every American city worthy of the name, should merit at least serious consideration.

When Washington finally wakes up to the fact that it is really a city instead of an over-grown town, those of us that are living through its transition period may once again enjoy the novel privilege of being able to draw up to our own front doors.

"Federal Employe" Says Government Workers Will Make Liberal Contributions Toward Unemployment Relief, but They Object to Dictation.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The Federal employe has always done his full duty in the matter of contributions to charity and to all popular causes. As a keyman on Community Chest drives and as a solicitor of sales of Liberty Bonds to furnish the Government with the "sinews of war," I wish most emphatically to state that the Federal employe gives, and gives till it hurts. Many of us worked overtime up to three hours every day for three straight years during the Mexican border trouble and the World War, and without additional compensation of any kind. I wish most emphatically to state that we expect to give again. But I do object to any man or collection of men, inferring that we are not doing our conscientious duty. I object to any committee picking out the Federal employe as the one class of all employed people which should carry on the bulk of the burden of supplying the needs of the unemployed by working half time. I object to any man dictating the proportion of our pay we are to give away. FEDERAL EMPLOYE.

Visitor Delighted With Taxicab Signs, "City Proper," as Move Against Wickedness.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The taxicabs of Washington are doing a fine thing by carrying the sign, "City Proper." This is a wonderful city, and if every one will adopt the motto "City Proper," it will be an example to all cities and help to put an end to this awful wickedness. This is my first visit. MRS. H. H.

49 CHESTS SURPASS LAST YEAR'S TOTAL

13 Per Cent Increase Shown With Little Needed for Aggregate Goals.

New York, Nov. 15 (A.P.).—A jump of 13 per cent over last year in contributions to 49 Community Chests already completed was recorded in a report made public today by the Association of Community Chest Councils.

The report, showing that 54 completed Chest campaigns have raised 98 per cent of the aggregate goals, or $19,566,094, was submitted to Walter S. Gifford, director of the President's organization on unemployment relief, and to Owen D. Young, chairman of the committee on mobilization of relief sources.

The basis for the 13 per cent increase is the 49 chests which are comparable with last year's figures. These chests raised $18,976,615, as against $16,774,217 in 1930. The other five completed chests have no basis on which they may be compared with 1930.

Total of 391 Chests.

The association has a total of 391 chests throughout the country. Of these 273 hold their campaigns between September 1 and December 31, and the remainder in the spring. The 54 chests totaled in the present report represent only the earliest fall drives thus far completed.

Today's report was the first to include returns from a Southern city. Birmingham, Ala., with a budget of $669,905 went "over the top" with a total of $732,018.

Of six cities having budgets exceeding one million dollars, Indianapolis, Kansas City, Mo., Milwaukee, St. Paul and Minneapolis succeeded. Detroit fell below.

Extraordinary Combination.

Excluding the Detroit result, which the association attributed to "an extraordinary combination of circumstances," the increase over last year's results figured in 49 cities would have been 21 instead of 13 per cent.

In commenting on the report, Allen T. Burns, executive director of the association, emphasized that in the matter of direct relief, the community chests and other private sources will give about 30 per cent while 70 per cent will come from city and county treasuries. The community chests provide many forms of services in addition to direct relief.

Forty seven additional chest campaigns were scheduled to begin tomorrow. Of the 54 on which the committee's report is based, 28 have not been previously announced.

Van Sweringen Co. Buys In 5-Year Notes

Cleveland, O., Nov. 15 (A.P.).— The Van Sweringen Corp. announced today acquisition and cancellation of $15,000,000 of its 5-year 6 per cent gold notes. The major portion of the notes retired were acquired in accordance with the offer of the corporation to purchase its outstanding $1,000 notes for $500 in cash and 20 shares of corporation common stock.

The offer remains in effect until December 1, but notes acquired hereafter will be purchased not by the corporation but by the Van Sweringen interests and will remain outstanding obligations of the corporation.

Keith-Albee Reports $668,417 Net Profits

New York, Nov. 15 (A.P.).—Keith-Albee-Orpheum Corp., a subsidiary of Radio-Keith-Orpheum, today reported net profit of $668,417 for the first 9 months of this year compared with $1,392,063 in the same period of 1930.

Orpheum Circuit, Inc., another R-K-O subsidiary, had a loss of $255,740 in the first three quarters of 1931 contrasted with net profit of $586,292 a year ago.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

MODERN FATHER WILLIAM.
(After Lewis Carroll.)

I.

"YOU are old, Father William," the young man said,
"And depressions you've seen come and go;
Today, though, you constantly stand on your head
To keep all your spirits quite low."

II.

"In the boom," Father William replied to his son,
"I was never a victim of fright,
"But now all the signs that are cheerful I shun
And never see anything right."

III.

"You are old," said the youth, "and you ought to have sense—
You should know that the skies always clear;
Oh, why do you now fill the air with laments
When you once were the soul of good cheer?

IV.

"IN the boom," said the sage as he ruffled his hair,
"I had confidence, courage and hope,
But now that the skies aren't cloudless and fair
I'm a very depressing old dope."

V.

"You are old," said the youth," and you look very sad
As you tremble and shiver and quake;
One would think this the first slump the world ever had
From the curious way that you shake."

VI.

"In the boom," said the man, "I was all happiness,
And I laughed all the day and the night.
It was then that I should have been timid, I guess,
And not now when the future is bright."

VII.

"YOU'RE a gloom," said the youth, "and you gimme the blues
As you stand upside down shedding tears;
It is tough to perceive you so suddenly lose
All your faith when a boom disappears."

VIII.

"It was soft in the days that preceded the flop,"
Said the man as he looked very low,
"And the thought easy money has come to a stop
Is most deeply depressing, you know."

IX.

"You are soft," said the youth. "One can hardly believe
You were once a great leader in trade;
In truth you're a sight to make any one grieve—
Tell me frankly of what you're afraid."

"I dunno," said the man as he shuddered some more,
And then thoughtfully tapped on his pate;
"As the country's exactly the same as before,
Well, it must have been something I ate!"

DIAL FLASHES

By ROBERT D. HEINL

BECAUSE of the now famous remark about President Hoover credited to Hans Kindler, the latter came in for country-wide attention over the radio. It was in the "March of Time" and the episode went about as follows:

Announcer: "Time marches on! We now go to Washington, D. C., to attend the opening performance of the new National Symphony Orchestra, directed by the nationally known cellist, Hans Kindler. In attendance is a distinguished audience, the center of which is Mrs. Herbert Hoover, wife of the President of the United States."

(Radio audience is then supposedly transported to scene of concert. Violins can be heard sounding their "A" strings, and general tuning of instruments. Kindler appears, and the following dialogue takes place).

Announcer: "We are all ready to start, Mr. Kindler."

Hans Kindler: "But where is President Hoover?"

Announcer: "He is not coming."

Hans Kindler: "Do you mean to tell me that President Hoover can not attend the opening performance of the new symphony orchestra in his own capital? The President attends the opening of the baseball season when he throws out the first ball. If you can get him to honor us this afternoon by his presence, I will give him a violin to throw out to the audience."

(Kindler then supposedly appears before the audience, is greeted with great applause, the rap of his baton is heard and the orchestra begins the overture).

THE turn of the tide in the depression is seen by Richard H. Waldo, of New York, noted publicist, who has returned from a swing about the country.

"The turn of the tide is at hand," Mr. Waldo, who has been speaking in behalf of the Advertising Federation of America and whose addresses have recently been broadcast from Cincinnati, Louisville and other cities, said. "Depression talk is out!"

"A hopeful sign is that they now say, 'We are not as bad off in this city as in some nearby or rival city,' which they mention. The people wanted action and now that President Hoover and Mr. Gifford are giving it to them a decided change for the better is foreseen."

All of which is quite significant, since Mr. Waldo predicted the present financial crisis to this writer two years ago as accurately as we could describe it now that the depression actually has come to pass.

An abbreviated concert version of the Gilbert and Sullivan comic opera, "The Gondoliers," will be sung by the American Vocal Quartet on the National Music League program this afternoon (WRC, 4 o'clock).

JUDGE JOHN BARTON PAYNE, national chairman of the American Red Cross, will speak at the unveiling of a bust of the late President Woodrow Wilson at Richmond tomorrow, WRC, 3:30 o'clock. • • • It will be Gus Arnheim's Orchestra's turn on Tuesday night, WRC, 10 o'clock. • • • James Wilkinson, WRC's announcer-barytone, will vocalize "La Paloma" and "Clang of the Forge" tonight, 6 o'clock. • • • Newton D. Baker, wartime Secretary of War, will discuss "The Debts of a Creditor Nation," tomorrow, WEAF network, 1 p. m. • • • Dino Grandi's first message to the American people will be given from WRC's studios on Thursday night. William Hard, who will introduce him then, will be on the air twice this evening, once at 8:15 o'clock over WRC, to discuss "Dino Grandi in Washington." • • • The "Great American Whopper" will be glorified by a host of prominent speakers, including Kermit Roosevelt, Capt. Frank Hawks, George Gershwin and others at the Tall Story Club meeting tomorrow night (WJZ network, 10 o'clock).

Columbia will furnish the talent tonight for the annual banquet of the Association of National Advertisers meeting in Washington this week.

THE Rev. Bob Shuler, operator of Station KGEF, Los Angeles, which the Federal Radio Commission recently ordered from the air, has indicated that he will carry his fight to the highest courts, if necessary.

"I do not believe the Court of Appeals will grant him a stay order," declared Thomas P. Littlepage, opposing counsel, "in the face of the record and decision of the commission. The attitude of the Court of Appeals on broadcasting of this type, as expressed in the KFKB (Brinkley, who has built and is now operating a station in Mexico) decision is pretty well understood.

"The principal objects of his attacks have been the courts, chamber of commerce, bar association, community chest, the Jews, Catholics, public officials, including the governor of the State and many others. For the commission and courts to tolerate this type of broadcasting would make it possible for radio to become one of the most destructive and revolutionary factors in this country."

THE Radio Commission is still said to be tied in a knot as to whether or not to allow Columbia to put in a booster station in Washington. As told in this column exclusively, the commission is really understood to have voted on the matter a week ago and turned it down, 3 to 2, with Commissioners Robinson and Lafount in the minority.

However, announcement has been delayed, according to current rumors, on the chance of getting one of the commissioners to change his vote.

The outcome is of interest to Washingtonians because if Columbia relinquishes WMAL, NBC will very likely lease the station and we will get full-time WJZ programs over WMAL, in addition to all the WEAF programs over WRC, instead of the split WJZ-WEAF programs, as at present.

William Haines, motion picture star, will speak briefly during the Wilkins Coffee Quarter Hour tonight (WRC, 7:45 o'clock). Les Stevens and his Diplomats will be guest artists in the same period on Wednesday night.

LOCAL motion picture houses giving special shows for the benefit of the District of Columbia unemployment fund will be honored by Radio Joe in his regular program tomorrow night (WMAL, 7:30 o'clock.

As a special gesture of good will toward listeners in the United States, the gayety of the program originating in Station KGU, Honolulu, Saturday night and broadcast over a Nation-wide network of stations, was halted for a few moments to allow the first radio performance of an old Polynesian death chant, used only upon the passing of a king or great chieftain into eternity.

The KGU transmission was practically free of static—certainly one of the clearest ever effected over a distance of 5,000 miles.

Board of Education to Meet.

The Board of Education of the District of Columbia will meet at 3:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the Franklin school building. A new policy intended to prohibit teachers from pursuing outside professional work is expected to be discussed.

Jane Corbett INTERPRETS the MODE

Figured green wool crepe uses an interesting diagonal incrustation, a black belt and black buttons effectively. (Courtesy of Redfern, Paris.)

New York, November 15.

WELL! Woman's problem of having a modishly rounded yet slender figure, and the world's problem of disposing of its excess wheat supply, have been solved by an expert on nearly everything in one grand fell swoop! In fact, all that's lacking is women's enthusiastic and whole-hearted approval and support and the world would become a paradise in which to live!

You see, it's this way. Some man figured out that the reason the present period evening and afternoon clothes don't look right on some of the lovely ladies seen around and about its because these ladies haven't the proper curves. He calls our attention to the fact that fashionable women have striven for many a season now to be as curveless as a slender birch tree, which embodies slender grace but may hardly be called seductive. And while a woman too curved may exercise to subdue her curves, the too-thin woman has only one recourse—diet! And, says this expert, the thing about a diet that curves women out fastest and most fashionably is wheat.

This wheat may be in the form of cereal, bread or noodles—just the same it's wheat. And it's woman's duty to eat her way through the country's excess wheat supply to the curves that properly pad out Second Empire frocks where they should be padded. ("Duty?" groans a too-plump lady. "It would be a pleasure!")

But what we wonder is—after eating on the proper curves, and using up the excess wheat, and saving the lives and pocketbooks of countless hundreds of farmers—what saving measure will be adopted to erase these curves should they find themselves unwanted in some new-style wave? So, look carefully before you leap to the aid of agriculture, my deahs!

• • • •

The diagonal line continues to be the smartest possible one for daytime wear these days! Of course, there are infinite variations of it, to suit the material in which it's carried out. One of the smartest I have seen in a long time is the diagonal incrustation on the frock from Redfern which I have sketched today. The frock itself is of fairly heavy figured wool crepe and the black leather belt has a silver buckle. Don't you like the unusual way the crushed collar buttons over, and the double-breasted effect of the bodice?

How are you going to have your diagonal line this year? As flattering and slenderizing as the one above?

• • • •

And a braided thong handle on the bag I have illustrated matched a double-braided strand bracelet to be worn outside of the gloves.

• • • •

What, you lovely picture, you don't care what kind of a frame you have? Then you're foolish—your house and surroundings do more to enhance your own particular loveliness than you can imagine—'n' besides it's lots of fun and very inexpensive to make the gadgets that give to your house its individuality! In fact, the first and most important thing is simply to send your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare department of The Washington Post for this week's illustrated leaflet—and then to go ahead happily according to its directions.

Au revoir!

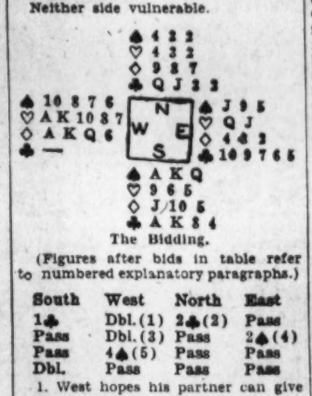
RUFFS AND HONOR-TRICKS.

THE potency of distribution in making naught of the power of honor-tricks is illustrated in the hand which forms the text of today's article. The bidding by which East and West reached their game contract may perhaps be open to criticism. In fact, West displayed unusual optimism which was only redeemed by the accuracy of the play. South, with 3 sure trump tricks, could not be blamed for his Double of the game contract, nor for his rueful acceptance of the mysteries of distribution when that contract was made.

South—Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.



The Bidding.

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

South	West	North	East
1♣	Dbl.(1)	2♣(2)	Pass
Pass	Dbl.(3)	Pass	2♠(4)
Pass	4♠(5)	Pass	Pass
Dbl.	Pass	Pass	Pass

1. West hopes his partner can give a spade or heart response.
2. Seeking to shut out the exchange of information between East and West and prepared to accept a penalty with his weak hand and even distribution.
3. Again a Double for a Takeout.
4. East knows that his partner is prepared for a spade Takeout. He therefore reluctantly bids his three-card spade suit.
5. West's bid of four spades would be justified if East's response had been free and not forced. While the hand is strong, it is an extremely optimistic bid.

South opens the King of clubs, although as the cards lie it happens that he could even have taken three rounds of trumps and that East would still have made his contract, as the remaining spade in Dummy would have proved an effective barrier against the run of the club suit, and the Dummy and the closed hand between them had all the tricks in diamonds and hearts. With a club Opening East played the hand to make his doubled contract by utilizing Dummy's trumps to ruff four of his losing clubs, using the Queen and Knave of hearts and trumping the third round of hearts to secure entry to his own hand, thus making 5 trump tricks, two hearts and three diamonds for game.

TODAY'S POINTER.

Question: Why should First or Second Hand not open the bidding unless holding 2½ or more honor-tricks?

Answer: Since the odd trick can not ordinarily be won unless partnership holds at least 4½ honor-tricks and the average holding is one-fourth of 8 or 2 honor-tricks, the hand should be of more than average strength to open the bidding.

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCES M'DONALD

A Critical Husband.

DEAR Frances McDonald: I have been married for six years to a man ten years my senior. I have two lovely children, 2 and 4 years of age.

My husband seems extremely indifferent to me lately. He criticizes my appearance, everything that I do and say, and in short he appears thoroughly dissatisfied.

I always look neat and clean. As a matter of fact, many outsiders have commented on how good looking I am and how classy I always look. I merely mention this to prove to you how unjust and uncalled for his remarks are.

So far as schooling goes, I have the upper hand, and have social advantages as well. I told him he could leave if he feels so displeased, but he passes over this lightly, and thinks I'm not sincere.

His entire behavior is becoming very trying on my nerves, and I'd like to settle it one way or another.

Do you think a short vacation would bring him to, or could you suggest anything else. Of course, if I went anywhere, I'd take the children, as they seem the only happiness I have.

I am a competent secretary and could procure a well-paying position should it become necessary for me to work and take care of the children. I would prefer this than to accept his money under disagreeable circumstances, although I know his legal responsibility.

I would appreciate some prompt advice through your column.

DISGUSTED.

Get the position and find an elderly woman you can trust to care for the home and your children. This is better than the vacation idea. It will accomplish two things. It will rehabilitate you in his eyes as a human being and will freshen and broaden your own outlook. You at the moment are in a condition of mind fatal to self-respect. You are striving to justify your self and your very existence. Snap out of it. Spend what you earn on yourself or save it for a divorce in the future. But the divorce will be unnecessary after you have taken the proper attitude toward your problem.

Meanwhile, be just as aloof as if you actually were on the vacation you had in mind. Accept no advances from any man who finds you less than a woman can be. Let him learn that marriage is not serfdom for woman, and that a husband is not secure from the consequences of his own acts merely because he is a husband.

If Anne Lindbergh could go to China, leaving her baby in the U. S. A., you can safety go to the office each morning and return each night. We mention this in case the question should just happen to be raised! He will probably be too stunned to raise any question at all. But in case he should, let Anne and Lindy be your "out." And do not be browbeaten into weakening. For it may be that eventually you may have to leave him. The type that behaves as he has usually proves too much for any woman to endure. So keep that fact in mind if tempted to yield to persuasion. You are not married to the best type and it is only fair to warn you that your thought should be entirely of yourself from now on. Let him do the worrying. You live in his house, supervise his home, and save your money for manicures! Or a divorce!

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"SCORPIO."

IF NOVEMBER 16 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:35 a. m. to 11 a. m., from 2:45 p. m. to 4 p. m. and from 10 p. m. to 11:30 p. m. The danger periods are from 7 a. m. to 8:30 a. m. and from noon to 2 p. m.

November 16 is indicated as an auspicious time for brain workers; the scientist, writer and promoter will be able to materialize some of their pet dreams, or to realize some ambition heretofore unattainable. Young people are doomed to worry in their love affairs and sweet friendships may be broken.

The child born on this November 16 will have an impulsive, aggressive nature, and will be liable to fits of anger. It will be unhappy, unless playing the role of leader. A life full of change and adventure, and interchanging periods of success and failure, are predicted for it.

Born on November 16, you are a quiet, unassuming, unimpulsive person, and you must be known well to be appreciated. You are a very poor self-advertiser, although you are no mean booster for the benefit of your friends. Your shyness and exaggerated sense of modesty often prevent you from accepting opportunities of self-advancement; this applies to both your business and social life. The pathway leading to many a desired goal would be shortened and the rough spots made smoother, if you were not too proud to accept kindly offers of a "lift."

Conservative by nature, you resist change and outside influences. The lunar position at the time you were born inclines you to some occupation of a mental nature. You do not suffer from irresolution or lack of perseverance. You know what you want, and you go after it with a dogged determination. As a rule you enter into things with a spirit of optimism; you are too cautious to ever gamble on a "dark horse." You are a lover of study, of books and of scientific literary pursuits. You are active in both mind and body, and your hobbies and pleasures, if not your work, should take you out of doors. A too sedentary life would prove dangerous to your health.

Harmony, happiness and success in marriage or business will be more likely to prevail by marrying or trading with persons born during July or February.

Successful people born November 16:

1—James McHenry—Secretary of War under Washington and Adams.
2—Daniel Read—Composer.
3—Charles Eliot Norton—Educator.
4—Timothy Dwight 2d—President of Yale College.
5—Minnie Hauk—Singer.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

WINTER COMING ON.

THE period of maximum good health for 1931 has passed, and we are entering on the stage of climb of the sickness rate. The year 1931 has proved a healthy one, with a low death rate. In the late winter and early spring influenza, colds and pneumonia were prevalent to an unusual degree, and when March was reached the prospect was for a bad yearly record.

Since the first of that month there has been but little sickness, and the death rate has been a trifle below that of 1930—and that was the banner year for all time. However, the bad late-winter, early-spring record will prevent 1931 from outclassing 1930. Most forms of contagious disease have been rather prevalent, but the type has been mild.

There is every prospect that typhoid fever and diphtheria will make new low records—much lower than ever before. Consumption appears to be headed for a low record. In spite of the very hot weather the baby diarrhea rate has been low.

Infantile paralysis has been unduly prevalent, and it held on into September and October much more tenaciously than previous records have led us to anticipate. But it was in milder form than hitherto. There is some reason for hoping that it may be on the point of becoming a milder disease. But this ends the good news. The record for so many years is available, and the curve is so invariable in all that record that we can safely forecast what will happen.

November will see a considerable increase in the prevalence of nose colds and coughs. There will be some increase in tonsilitis. The death rate will rise moderately. In December the death rate will rise rapidly and people will begin to become disturbed by the prevalence of severe pneumonia. In January conditions will be considerably worse than in the previous month. February will have a worse record than its predecessor.

During the 29 days of that month the number of deaths will surpass the number occurring in the 31 days of January and will equal the number in the long month of March. It is in February that pneumonia will be most prevalent and, at the same time, most severe. In March there should be a very slight general improvement, especially as regards pneumonia and meningitis. Smallpox and measles are usually worse in March than in February.

Up to date the economic depression has improved the health rate and lowered the death rate. However, this improvement may not continue much longer. It is rather expected that it will be reflected in a higher consumption rate by next spring. Its effect in increasing pellagra is already being reported.

STRAWBERRIES AND BEER.

C. A. N. asks: Is there proof of the following common beliefs?

1. Milk and fish eaten at the same meal are unwholesome or poisonous?
2. To eat strawberries and drink beer at the same meal is injurious?
3. Is it injurious to eat fresh cucumbers unpeeled?

REPLY.

1. No.
2. No.
3. It is somewhat hazardous to eat the peeling of any vegetable or fruit. The peeling is sometimes contaminated with disease-producing bacteria, such as that of typhoid, and some that are sometimes spread by rats and mice. Since spraying is so universal now, there is some danger that the peel will carry some arsenic or other poison. So far as these points are concerned, the answer is yes. Except for them, the answer is no.

Now, let us go back to your statement that these are common beliefs. Ninety per cent of such statements are not common beliefs. They are food faddery, promoted by food faddists. By the use of radio and the printed page food faddists sometimes push this foolishness to the point where a fair minority of the people accept it. In a few instances they put it over enough so that it comes to be a common belief.

Indoor—Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

LATE WORK IN THE GARDEN.

WE MUST make haste to get our imported lily bulbs into the ground. All hyacinths for house use must be potted up by the end of this month. Be sure to soak the soil before pots are put in the cellar; if this is not done their roots will not start making growth and they will be a failure. It is well to look the pots over about once in two weeks and if the surface soil appears to be dry you must give the bulbs some water.

As soon as the freezing weather gets in you must cover your bulb beds with light litter or other mulching material. Keep in mind that the deeper the mulch the later the bulbs will be in starting next spring. Do not plant crocus bulbs too near the surface or they will heave with the alternate freezing and thawing.

If you have a cold frame filled with perennials or half-hardy plants, be sure to ventilate it on warm, sunny days. This must be done to prevent heating.

Should your perennial border be in some particularly low place in your garden, better dig a ditch along its lower side to carry off the surface water when the ground becomes frozen. Stagnant water which collects about the crowns of the plants from the melting snow will thus be prevented from doing any material damage.

In some places, during the winter, young shade trees are badly injured by sun scald. This condition can be avoided by wrapping the trunks between the ground and the point where the branches are given off with burlap. When such a covering is used it must be loosely adjusted.

After your early chrysanthemums have finished flowering you may cut them back to within a few inches of the ground. This method of caring for these plants will insure a number of splendid blooming shoots in the early spring.

Slaked lime may be worked into the soil about bearded irises at this time.

Wherever delphiniums have been troubled with blights or rust it is well to remove and burn the old stalks and foliage and then cover the plants with coal ashes.

Loser of Election Bet Rides Victor in Barrow

Jack A. Spates lost an election bet.

He pushed the wheelbarrow.

Robert Connor won the bet.

He rode the barrow.

Spates backed Billy Gloth for Commonwealth's attorney for Arlington County. Billy was defeated, so yesterday he put red, white and blue streamers on the barnyard rickshaw, Connors mounted, and was wheeled from Cherrydale firehouse to Preston avenue and return.

On the conveyance was a bell which Connors rang over the half-mile distance. Automobile traffic on both trips was forced to follow the laboring Spates at snail's pace. Spates, a veteran member of the Cherrydale Fire Department, wore a sign bearing the significant words "I lost." And the onlookers cheered.

Alexandria Taxes Must Be Paid Today

Citizens Face Penalty for Delinquency; Office to Be Open Tonight.

Today is the last day on which Alexandrians may pay city taxes without incurring a penalty for delinquency, and, for the accomodation of those who will be unable to reach his office during regular business hours, City Collector Purvis Taylor has arranged to open his office at 7:30 tonight and close at 9 o'clock.

The taxes were due October 15, but not payable until November 15 and, since this date fell on Sunday, an additional day was granted. There was a rush to pay the taxes last week, and Collector Purvis and his office force expect to be very busy today and tonight.

The city council recently adopted a plan of accepting payment of delinquent taxes in installments; this does not apply to the 1931 taxes, but to those of previous years. Those unpaid taxes of the previous fiscal year carry a penalty of 5 per cent, with an additional 1 per cent for seven months, making a total of 13 per cent penalty, after which interest at the rate of 6 per cent per annum is added. In many cases, when the property owners have failed to pay the tax, the property is sold at auction by the city and usually bid in for the amount of the tax.

HOSPITAL ASSURED BY ARLINGTON DRIVE

Site Is Purchased and First Unit Expected to Be Ready in Spring.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

A movement has been started which will assure establishment of a modern hospital for Arlington County.

Sponsors of the movement announce that not only has the location been determined, but a site has been purchased in the vicinity of Lyon Park near the Lee boulevard.

The plans provide for erection of the building on the unit plan. The first unit, it is said, will be completed and ready for opening in the early spring. It will contain administration offices, operating and waiting rooms and wards and private rooms to accommodate about twenty patients.

In addition to plans for the hospital, it is announced that one of the leading drug stores in the county has perfected plans to provide all-night service to the physicians and the public.

Dr. Sidney B. Hall, State superintendent of public instruction in Virginia, and Dr. Frank W. Ballou, superintendent of the District of Columbia schools, will speak at a meeting to be held Wednesday evening in the auditorium of the Washington Lee High School under the auspices of the Educational Committee of the Business and Professional Woman's Club of Arlington County.

The meeting has been arranged through the educational committee, of which Mrs. Mae E. Jacobs is chairman, assisted by Mrs. Lorena Ellis and Miss Helen Samuels.

According to Mrs. Jacobs, Dr. Ballou will speak on "Education, Finance and Its Relation to Education," and Dr. Hall will speak on some phases of State education.

The meeting will be preceded by a turkey dinner at 6:30 o'clock.

Members of the county school board and members-elect to the new county board will be among guests.

Arlington Women Voters to Meet.

Representative Howard W. Smith of the Eighth Congressional District of Virginia, and John W. Bust, State senator-elect, will be the guests of honor at the fall meeting of the Organized Women Voters of Arlington County, to be held Wednesday afternoon at the Calvary Methodist Protestant Church, Aurora Hills. The meeting will be preceded by a luncheon at 12:30 o'clock.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

AND the size of the fellow!

No doubt you have imagined him, as I always had, as about 5 feet 9 or 10 inches in height, and weighing around 160 pounds. As a matter of fact, he is just a scintilla—or maybe I mean whisker—under 6 feet 1 inch, and weighs in the neighborhood of 180.

WM. HAINES.

So I immediately abandoned my original plan of adopting a playful give-and-take policy in case he began any of his lightheartedness pranking. And sure enough!

No sooner was I inside the door than he urged me to be seated, at the same time pushing a chair toward me. What is this? thinks I to myself, thinks I. Does this lad think that I haven't seen all his pictures and that I don't know all about his reputation as a practical joker? Sit down in that chair? Not I—not even me! It is probably one of those collapsible things that will spread me all over the dressing-room floor like scatter rugs and then snap back into position again as if nothing had happened!

So I took the biggest and most uncomfortable chair in the room and he sat down in the one he had offered me—which struck me as odd.

Then he reached over to the dressing table and proffered a silver filigree cigarette box containing three or four cigarettes and a piece of apple, ostensibly for moisture. Ha! thinks I, this big fella never stops trying: Those cigarettes are probably made of cast iron, painted white, and glued to the bottom of the box and that apple is just the come-on. So I declined, with thanks. Anyhow, cigarettes and I parted company years ago for the sake of the old nervous system.

However, he took one and lighted it, and I hope he didn't notice me start as he did so.

It was just a minute or so after that the dressing room phone rang and because I happened to be sitting nearest it he nodded for me to answer it. C-ssh! There's no stopping this cutup! Does he think for a minute that I haven't seen these fake phones that squirt water, or maybe ink, all over you as soon as you take the receiver off the hook? Don't make me laugh!

So he answered it, and it proved to be Colby Harriman phoning back from the front of the house that he would be glad to buy me that lunch in any White Coffee Pot or Old Tavern restaurant I might select, the big so-and-so.

It was at about this juncture, as I look back upon it, that it began to dawn upon my lightning perception that William Haines is not like that at all. By subtle suggestion and delicate innuendo I intimated as much.

"NO," quoth Mr. Haines, "I guess those smart-aleck days are definitely and permanently a thing of the past. This must be so in the very nature of things. When I began making those wise-cracking, fresh-guy pictures, back in the old silent days I was, more or less, just a wise-cracking, fresh guy myself. Ten years have passed since then, and now, at 30, I doubt if I COULD do the things I did at 20, even if I wanted to—which I don't.

"I suppose because many of those early pieces of incessant clowning clicked at the box-office, I did acquire a sort of subconscious idea of infallibility. Whenever anyone would suggest that I ought to change my style, I would point proudly to the gross receipts and reply, 'Yes, but look at all the dough my pictures are making'. Then I began to become aware that now and again one of my pictures wouldn't even make a dill pickle at the box-office, let alone any real money. That set me thinking, and this tour of personal appearances has been a revelation, no less—the best thing that could have happened.

"Audiences have been great to me and through their kindness, enthusiasm and willingness to turn out in huge numbers to see me have imbued me with an entirely new sense of responsibility and an overwhelming desire to give them the best I've got in future pictures. The next one will be 'Turn to the Right.'

"In fact, I may say that in my mind, I am right now beginning all over again in pictures: I've worked hard with the voice, I've had this first and invaluable experience on the stage before audiences and honestly believe I finally know what it is all about and where I want to go."

IN THE meantime, Mr. Haines has every intention of continuing the pursuit of his favorite hobby, collecting antiques.

This avocation of collector began with Haines' determination to have an upstairs living room of exactly the sort he had always wanted. He began by tearing the second floor of his home apart in order to achieve this one room. When that was accomplished he realized that it was thoroughly out of keeping with the rest of the house—so he gutted the whole thing and "did it right," strongly under the Chinese influence. This process has been repeated three times and has encompassed most of the popular "periods," until now the Haines home is, as he says, what it should have been in the first place—an edifice that has been rebuilt and added-on-to until it commands five acres of ground and represents, in decoration and furnishing, a priceless treasure house of eighteenth century old English and American objets d'art.

This house, in a quiet and unpretentious residential section of Hollywood, in Mr. Haines' view, has somewhat outgrown his own personal requirements so he has leased it, furnished, to Talulah Bankhead and himself resides in an apartment, surrounded by all of his best pieces—only don't tell Miss Bankhead!

Between pictures, and primarily for the love of it, he has completely done over the homes of Joan Crawford, Leila Hyams and others of the film colony, and now finds his fame so far spread as to bring requests from outsiders for similar expert service. This, however, was not what induced him to open his antique shop in Hollywood.

That was purely a gesture of friendship to afford congenial occupation for one of whom he was fond, who found himself for the moment in difficulties occasioned by the stock market crash and subsequent depression.

"BILL" HAINES, as you must be aware, was born in Staunton, Va., and attended the Staunton Military Academy. He has in the past been a frequent visitor in Washington, although this is his first professional appearance in the Capital. As recently as when he played Baltimore in his present act, he spent his week-ends in this city visiting two aunts who are resident here.

His act, by the way, was written by that expert vaudevillian and playwright, Edgar Allen Woolf, who accompanied Mr. Haines on the road the first two weeks of his tour to see to it that everything got to running smoothly. He also wrote and supervised the talking-picture prologue that precedes Haines' actual appearance on the stage in the flesh.

If you were to press the matter, you would learn that, next to "Wallingford," the pictures most cherished in the Haines memory are "Tell It to the Marines," in which Lon Chaney gave him a generous and appreciated "break;" "Brown, of Harvard," and "Slide, Kelly, Slide," every minute of which he enjoyed in the making.

Altogether, if you ask me, a pretty level-headed and substantial citizen, this William Haines, precisely as all of his associates on the lot who have preceded him to Washington have declared him to be.

And the size of the fellow!

By NELSON B. BELL.

Once more the Belasco Theater is converted into that fabulous Parisian resort, "The Wonder Bar," and "Monsieur Al," the ostensible proprietor, again is fortifying his claim to the title of "the world's greatest entertainer." In this vehicle he pretty nearly is, as anyone who was there last night will tell you.

As Washington is aware from its earlier premiere visit, this unique entertainment is as intimate and as informal as any night club into which one might stroll for an hour or two of relaxation. As the audience filters into the theater, the members of the cast similarly filter through the aisles to the stage and begin to dance to the hot tunes of an orchestra that has been slowly assembling and tuning up. With the plot—and a very fragile plot it is, although ample for this cabaret form of diversion, with its many specialties and incessant disregard for any sort of theatrical form or dramatic continuity—fairly under way, Monsieur Al Jolson, the major domo of the place, dashes about up and down the aisles, onto the stage, back into the audience, greeting late comers, shaking hands with old friends—some real, others pretended—having the time of his life and they the time of theirs. All very exciting.

This sort of thing was made to order for Jolson. It gives him every latitude for his wisecracking, story telling, singing, cross-fire or what have you! And does he work! With all the dynamic fervor that has made him one of the most remarkable performers on the boards, in "Wonder Bar" he matches the best work he has ever done.

Interspersed with new songs are many old favorites that moved the audience to the most deafening applause heard in a local theater since Jolson was here last. The most vociferously received of all the numbers he sang, and probably the least understood by a majority of those in attendance, was the Jewish Folk Song in the second act, sung with a building crescendo that literally brought down the house. The major portion of his monologues are comic whams that have the customers wallowing in the aisles, no less.

Although he comes close, Mr. Jolson is not the whole show. Some of the acts introduced as entertainers in his cabaret—where a domestic love drama is being intermittently worked out—are extraordinarily clever.

Among these may be mentioned Chilton and Thomas, those incomparable dancers, who appeared here with him last season and in the interim have been seen at the Palace; the Mangini Brothers, athletes par excellence; Patsy Kelly, the rollickingly rowdy comedienne, who executes "The Dying Flamingo;" Al Segal, who thinks his head is rubber and was made to bounce on; Rita Montaner, a Cuban songstress, endowed with typical Latin-American beauty of both voice and person, and four glamorous dancers who execute an exotic number of rhythmic and undulating measures with frenzied abandon and no little daring.

Among the supporting players are the blondely beautiful Claire Windsor, formerly of the films; Auguste Aramini, who is the voluble headwaiter of the "bar"; Frank Green, Edward Raquello, Antonina Fechner, a seductive siren whose wiles are one of "Wonder Bar's" major menaces, and a host of others.

Upon the conclusion of the play proper last night, Mr. Jolson held open house, invited the audience to smoke if it wished, served refreshments to those out front, sang a group of request numbers—"Mammy", "Sonny Boy", "April Showers" and others of his famous hits—and fairly conclusively proved that there are only five or six Grade "A" singing comedians on the American stage and that he is all of them!

NATIONAL

"NORTHERN EUROPE." Third of five "pictured travel revues" by Burton Holmes, illustrations by the lecturer, colored by Grace Nichols and Mildred Petry; motion pictures by Andre LaVarre. Reviewed Sunday afternoon by W. A. Whitney.

Paris, Brussels, Berlin, Stockholm, Oslo and the Land of the Midnight Sun—that was the glamorous, glorious route over which Burton Holmes took attentive listeners yesterday afternoon at the National Theater. Weaving into a perfectly coordinated series of motion pictures and colored stereoptican slides a running narrative of description, Mr. Holmes recreated within the short space of two hours a thrilling journey, combining metropolitan lure with rural magnificence to a superlative degree.

Opening with scenes little considered by the departing traveler, the travelogue continues, taking in the great day of the Grand Prix at Deauville and proceeding to Paris with its museums and shops. The French capital left behind, comes Holland with glimpses of Belgium, Ghent, peaceful The Hague and the busy cheese market of Alkmaar. Then Berlin, from the breakfast hour on the Unter den Linden, through the Koenigs-Wache (with glimpses of the regal past contrasted with the present) and sightseeing tours, to "sea-going sleeping cars" on the trip to Stockholm.

Contrasting with the Stockholm of 1902, Mr. Holmes described the changes of the present city, the city hall, library, auto palace, concert house, shops and new boulevards. After cruising along exquisite waterways to Salts-Jobaden, and by rail and ferry to Denmark, the city of cyclists—Copenhagen—is visited, out of which a side trip is made to Iceland.

That mid-Atlantic kingdom—in the anomalous position of recognizing the Danish king as its sovereign yet no part of Denmark—serves as the introduction to the north country, with Reykjavik and its fascinating people and customs the last of the detailed urban portions of the lecture.

Without overlooking the scenic beauties of the countries visited, the real natural grandeur becomes more pronounced as the land of the Norsemen is approached, the charm of the sylvan vistas of France and Germany and the picturesqueness of the Dutch landscape pale before the rugged sternness of the Norwegian fjords and North Cape jutting into the sea. These majestic monuments of the relentless forces of Nature in turn give way to the unparalleled gorgeousness of the midnight sun, whose crimson glories, framed by clouds of gray and silver, form the climactic thrill to an engrossing tour of northern Europe.

Virginians May Aid In Pay Fund Drive

Meeting to Discuss Plea of Arlington and Fairfax Counties.

Arlington and Fairfax counties in Virginia want to share with the District in the charity relief fund being raised from contributions of Government employes, according to Louis C. Carl, president of the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce.

Government workers are to contribute one day's pay monthly for three months, the original plan being to use the money for relief of unemployment and destitution in the District. The Virginia counties feel that money contributed to the fund by workers living in the counties should be diverted to relief there, as it would be a hardship for such workers to contribute for relief both in the District and in their home communities.

A meeting is being arranged by Dan Hollenga, president of the Alexandria Chamber of Commerce, to be attended by presidents of the Arlington and Fairfax chambers and Government officials in charge of the fund, Mr. Carl said, at which the counties' request for participation will be discussed.

Parent-Teacher Council Will Meet in Arlington

The Arlington County Council of Parent-Teacher Associations will hold an all-day meeting in the Cherrydale School Auditorium tomorrow.

Mrs. J. N. Saunders, president of the District of Columbia Council, will be the principal speaker at the morning session, which starts at 10 o'clock. At the afternoon session, Mrs. E. E. Carver, fifth vice president of the Virginia State Congress, will discuss various problems in a round-table talk.

LIST OF UNBEATEN FOOTBALL TEAMS DWINDLES

Severe Tests Remain for Survivors

Irish Have Southern California, Army on Schedule.

Yale and Booth in Path of Harvard; Tulane Shines.

By HERBERT W. BARKER.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15 (A.P.).—The football march that leads to national recognition grows tougher and tougher as the season goes on, but Notre Dame and Northwestern, Tulane and Tennessee, Harvard and Southern Methodist, so far have taken all hurdles without a slip.

For some of these the path still to be traversed is full of pitfalls. Notre Dame yet must battle Southern California and Army; Northwestern still has to dispose of Iowa and Purdue, the game with the latter having been added today as the banner attraction of the Big Ten's charity schedule for November 28.

Tulane has Sewanee, Louisiana State and Washington State and Southern Methodist must play Navy. Texas Christian and St. Mary's, of Oakland, Calif.

Harvard Meets Yale.

Harvard has only one more game—with Yale—but that should give the Crimson a busy afternoon next Saturday. Tennessee, with Kentucky for a final opponent, apparently is certain of finishing the season without defeat or tie.

All six of these leaders checked in with victories yesterday. Tulane, with its Southern Conference as well as national hopes in the balance, soundly whipped Georgia, previously unbeaten, 20-7. Tennessee turned back the powerful Vanderbilt Commodores by approximately the same margin, 21-7.

Notre Dame took things easily in a 20-0 defeat of the Navy, but Northwestern, inexplicably sluggish, just did manage to nose out Indiana, 7-6. Harvard scored early against Holy Cross, gained ground almost at will, but won by a margin no greater than 7-0. Southern Methodist was hard pressed to turn back Baylor, 6-0.

The Eastern program was marked by a series of stunning upsets in which three previously unbeaten elevens, Cornell, Temple and Syracuse, went down to defeat. Cornell gained ground in huge chunks around midfield against Dartmouth, but could not pierce the Indian defense near the goal line nor stop the sensational passing combination of Bill Morton and Bill McCall

Pitt's Easy Victory Big Surprise.

Perhaps a bigger surprise than any of these was the decisiveness of Pittsburgh's defeat of the Army, 26-0, the worst trouncing an Army team has suffered since 1912. The Cadets checked Pitt's running attack rather well, but were utterly bewildered by Panther aerials, which gained almost 300 yards.

A crowd of 80,000 saw Fordham and New York University play to a scoreless tie. Princeton took its sixth straight beating, this time by Washington and Lee, 6-0, but Penn nosed out Georgia Tech, 13-12. Villanova and Detroit played a 0-0 tie in the Midwest

Aside from Northwestern's close win over Indiana, Ohio State's triumph at the expense of Wisconsin, 6-0, was the highlight of the Big Ten program Chicago, however, surprised with a 13-6 victory over Illinois, and Purdue walloped Iowa, 22-0. Michigan and Michigan State drew at 0-0 for the second year in a row.

Notre Dame Full Back Out of South. Cal. Game

Baltimore, Nov. 15 (A.P.).—George Melinkovich, Notre Dame's star full back, was injured so severely yesterday in the game in the Baltimore Stadium against Navy that it will be impossible for him to play next Saturday against Southern California, it became known today.

Melinkovich left the game in the first quarter. He was taken to a hospital, where it was found that his clavicle joint was separated from his shoulder blade. He is 19 years old and comes from Tooele, Utah.

He was able to leave for South Bend last night with the other members of the squad. Several other Notre Dame players were hurt, but not seriously.

Big Ten Arranges Games for Charity

Northwestern-Purdue Contest Among Group to Aid Unemployed.

Chicago, Nov. 15 (U.P.).—Athletic directors and coaches of the Western Conference met here today and arranged a series of post-season football games which are expected to raise $250,000 for chairty. The total receipts will be pooled and divided equally among the seven States comprising Big Ten territory.

Three games will be played Saturday, November 28, as follows: Northwestern vs Purdue at Soldier Field, Chicago; Minnesota vs Ohio State at Minneapolis; Michigan vs Wisconsin at Ann Arbor.

The other four teams will engage in a round-robin tournament of 30-minute games at Stagg Field, Chicago, Thanksgivig Day, beginning between 10 and 11 a. m. Pairings for the first games are: Chicago vs Iowa, Indiana vs Illinois.

The winners of these two games will then play each other in the afternoon in another 30-minute game. It was suggested after today's meeting that 8-minute quarters be played in the round robin tournament instead of 30-minute games, and the conference will take a mail vote on that suggestion this week.

Weiss Injured in Crash; Schwartz Fights Godwin

Accident Forces Shift in Program at Alexandria.

SAM WEISS, light-heavyweight boxer, of Philadelphia, who was scheduled to meet Billy Schwartz in the main bout of the inaugural Day Nursery benefit show in Portner's Arena, Alexandria, tonight, is reported near death in a Philadelphia hospital with injuries received Saturday afternoon in an automobile accident.

Weiss' place on the program will be taken by Bob Godwin, of Norfolk, recent conqueror of Reds Barry, and the show will be presented otherwise as per schedule, the first bout beginning at 8:30 o'clock.

According to information received early yesterday morning by Frankie Mann, matchmaker for the Day Nursery A. C., Weiss was en route to Atlantic City with "Rattle" Fitch-

Pegler Peeks in on Politics As 30,000 Crowd Watches Pro Football at New York

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.
Special to The Washington Post.

NEW YORK, N. Y., Nov. 15.—The Chicago Bears beat the New York Giants, 12 to 6, in a Sunday afternoon football entertainment at the Polo Grounds, adorned by the presense of the official Tammany set and numerous lay, or cash, customers.

The Giants scored a touchdown in the second period on a 95-yard movement beginning with the return of a punt by John Kitzmiller. A moment later, Benny Friedman strolled 42 yards off the Bears' left tackle to the Bears' 30-yard line. Kitzmiller, on a lateral from Friedman, and Wycoff, on a buck over center, got a first down at the 15-yard line and Badgro got another at the 8-yard line on a pass from Friedman. Friedman scored the touchdown on a dive over center for 3 yards and Kitzmiller's kick for the goal failed.

As a special attraction, a flock of geese gave a demonstration of formation flying over the park during the intermission in a strong side wedge pattern. Tammany Young, the noted actor and retired gate-crasher, yelled to Mr. Mara, the proprietor, to squawk about the flying wedge.

Brown Derby Appears.

Al Smith's brown derby popped up in the first row of the field boxes accompanied by Mr. Smith himself and the faithful rose and saluted the New York crown with great respect. His honor, the mayor, Mr. Walker, made a more formal entrance, walking half the length of the field attended by several policemen wearing side arms. He raised his hat several times, developing a slight crease in one sleeve, and two secretaries tore for the phones to summon his valets However, two dozen pants pressers jumped out of nearby seats to smooth things out and a critical situation in the affairs of the local state was averted.

A bit of scandal occurred when the mayor entered the governor's box to sit through the game with him. People had understood that they were sore at each other, back and forth, and their apparent amity during the ball game gave rise to ugly rumors of a reconciliation which to the adherents of each, would be a discredit to both.

The mayor was dressed as a straight man in a refined singing and dancing act with original witty sayings, with the brim of his hat, a delicate creation in the tint of a cafe au lait, turned down in a fetching, rather mischievous tilt over his right eye. He and Mr. Smith fell to sparring during the first quarter, but no blows were struck and it developed that Mr. Walker was merely of his favorite prize fighter, Maxie Rosenbloom.

30,000, Mostly Cash.

Mr. Mara, the Giants' alma pater, was in high spirits when the house had been counted, with some 30,000 patrons in the park, most of them on a strictly cash basis. Professional football had a difficult time for several seasons in New York owing to popular disinterest and bad weather, but this year the patrons have seen little spiritual difference between teams which play to support expensive college plants, including coaches, press agents and graduate managers, and the kind that play to support such as Mr. Mara. It would be very difficult for the common customer to borrow $10 from a college A. A., whereas Mr. Mara is well known as a very soft touch. The weather has assisted Mr. Mara's business this season, also today's conditions being typical, with a fairly warm atmosphere, and good visibility.

It stirred strange sentiments, nevertheless, to see Red Cagle in the Giants' back field, remembering the figure he was at West Point a couple of years ago. He was a god then, with all the prestige and social quality of the U. S. Military Academy on his side, but today he was just one journeyman among others play-

G. W. Tackles Butler Here Friday.

Colonials Seeking 5th Straight Triumph in Night Game.

Carlin, Carter, Parrish, Fenlon Likely Starting Backs.

A VICTORY over the Bulldogs of Butler University is the next objective of the George Washington Colonials. The latter, having benefited by a week's rest, are eager to chalk up their fifth win of the season and expect to click in real form when the two meet in Griffith Stadium under the arc lights Friday night.

The bumps and bruises suffered in past games have just about all disappeared and the Colonials will take the field Friday night in perhaps their best condition this year. They will, that is, unless some injuries crop out during the vigorous practice sessions that are in store for them before Friday night.

Hard Work Faces G. W. Squad.

While the Colonials had two off days last week from practice, this week's schedule calls for hard work and plenty of it. Although a number of the rough spots have been polished off there still is lots of work remaining and one of the most important objects in this week's practice will be getting the new back field combination that is likely to start against Butler clicking as a high-powered unit.

After experimentnig practically all season with his backs, Coach Pixlee now believes that in Carlin, Carter, Fenlon and Parrish he has the best quartet on his squad. It is certain that they possess greater offensive power than any other unit he has tried and they are to make their bow against Butler.

Lee Carlin is to direct the play from quarter back and probably will do most of the ball-carrying. In recent games he has shown to great advantage and starred against Salem In this game he scored four touchdowns and at last seems to have found himself. He also will do most of the forward passing and the punting.

Joe Carter, because of his strong running, is to get the full back job. He is a powerful runner and ought to be able to plug through the line for important yardage. Parrish and Fenlon are scheduled to do the blocking while Carlin and Carter alternate between them the brunt of the ball-advancing work.

The forward line of the Colonials, which has held its own in all games, is likely to remain intact. Frank Blackistone, center, and the two guards, Stewart and Dike, are now fully recovered from past injuries, while Slaird and Nielsen, tackles, and Mulvey and Chambers, ends, are fresher and in better trim than at any time in the past month.

PASSES FAIL TO SCORE.

Farmington, Mo., Nov. 15 (A.P.).—Fornfelt High School completed 31 of 40 attempted forward passes in a recent football game with Farmington High, yet gained so little ground that Farmington won, 19 to 0.

Maryland U. Promised Battle

W. and L. Eleven Is Threat to Record of Old Liners.

Byrd's Squad Ready for Hard Home-Coming Game.

UNIVERSITY of Maryland's one-time jinx will invade College Park Saturday when Washington and Lee puts its team on the field in the Old Liners' homecoming day battle that will be the finale of the season in Byrd Stadium.

And it appears that the Terrapins will have to be in top form if the old bugaboo that was finally halted is not to again assert itself. Washington and Lee took the first four games from Maryland in the series that was begun in 1924 and then, through the great efforts of Snitz Snyder, stopped the Generals in the 1928 game played in Griffith Stadium, 6 to 0.

Maryland won again last year by a big margin after the teams had a lapse of a season through inability to agree on a mutually suitable date.

Generals Loom as Threat.

Early in the season, it appeared as if Washington and Lee would not be any great shucks for Saturday's contest. At that time Maryland was going great guns and the Generals were having their troubles. However, the game has a very much different aspect now. Maryland has continued to play fine football and Washington and Lee has come to life, scoring over Virginia, Virginia Poly and Princeton in its last three games, and is just reaching its height.

Real toil faces the Old Line gridders this week. They were on the field only two days last week and did very little then, but the practice during the next three days will be the most strenuous the Terps have engaged in since the campaign got under way. They will have some scrimmage, something they have not had since October 6, three days before the Navy contest in Washington.

Curley Byrd has all his squad available and in good trim, Al Woods being the last to round into good shape. He has played only a few minutes since Kentucky was battled at College Park on November 17, but should be a big asset against Washington and Lee and in the games that follow with Johns Hopkins, on Thanksgiving Day, and Western Maryland, on December 3, both of which will be met in the Baltimore Stadium.

Booth at Yale Drill Today After Lay-Off

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 15.—Capt. Albie Booth, Yale's chief if not only hope of conquering the undefeated Harvard eleven next Saturday, will report for practice tomorrow for the first time in more than a week.

The Eli's, well acquainted with Harvard's chief weapons of attack due to two scouting migrations to Cambridge, will spend the major portion of the time on defense against the Crimson's pet plays, especially against Barry Wood's passes.

Lamar Ends Boxing Career For Harvard Coaching Job

Former District Star Takes Charge of Ring Squad.

HAVING forsaken professional boxing, Henry Lamar, former athletic star of Washington, is now on the coaching staff of Harvard University in charge of the varsity boxing team. This new role for the former Western High and Virginia University athlete was offered him at the beginning of the academic year two months ago.

Lamar has had a varied career in the sports world since he first attained prominence here as the mainstay of the Western High School football and basket ball teams seven years ago. As a senior in high school he won the national amateur light heavyweight boxing championship and in his first year at Virginia, 1927, successfully defended the title.

For three and a half years Lamar

Alabama Pitts Does Stuff For Dear Old Sing Sing In Homecoming Contest

By H. ALLEN SMITH.

OSSINING, N. Y., Nov. 15 (U.P.). Bruises, cuts, internal injuries and touchdowns were administered in great profusion to the United States Naval Militia's football team today by the boys of dear old Sing Sing, who defeated their visitors 33 to 0.

As was anticipated, Alabama Pitts, quarter back and quadruple threat man for Sing Sing, proved too much of a handful for the militiamen. He scored two of the five touchdowns, threw passes for the other three, kicked for one point and forward passes for two more. Approached after the game by the press, seeking a statement, Alabama said: "Well, I done my best. I ain't allowed to say nothing else."

It was a rather strange football game. There were 450 paid admissions and each of the 450 visitors, including reporters, was subjected to a thorough "frisking" as they say at Sing Sing.

Upon entering the main gate, two officers closed in upon this eager football fan and proceeded to feel him from hat to ankle.

This resulted in the discovery of several magazines, which were confiscated. Such things not being permitted within the walls.

Guards and keepers were numerous and they devoted themselves to eyeing the visitors.

The game was played on Lawes Field and the ground was as hard as a steel rail. And though the playing was rough, the Sing Sing boys emerged without a single injury.

In the first two plays from scrimmage, two militiamen were carried off the field. Ample medical precautions had been taken for the invaders and a half dozen stretchers were kept on the sidelines. They were in almost constant use, since the militiamen couldn't stand up under the vicious ramming and tackling of Alabama Pitts and his rock busters. Alabama, who is doing ten years for larceny, doesn't bother wearing headgear. He and eight other members of the Sing Sing squad never saw a football before this year, yet they manage to handle one of the things with great dexterity.

Sing Sing's strength lies in the passing capabilities of Alabama, who seemed able to lay them in whatever groove he chose. He was aided and abetted no little by Arsenic Jones, a large Negro, and Eggshell Martone, who stands four feet off the ground and was bashful to the point of refusing to tell of the incident which led to his imprisonment. Arsenic and Eggshell, the ends, caught anything Alabama tossed.

Warden Lawes permitted all convicts, save those who are in the death house, to witness today's game. His official order said that any prisoners, except those in the death house and in the prison hospital, could attend.

A play-by-play account of the contest was broadcast through the prison loud speaker system to those who could not attend. The announcer, carrying an ordinary telephone for a microphone, was perched on the grandstand roof.

Lorton Prisoners Find D. C. Sandlotters Tough

The quiet of a Sunday afternoon on the "campus" of dear old Lorton was broken yesterday by the crashing of bodies and the pounding of cleated feet on the greensward. The big, rough, tough Reformatory lads were engaging the 135-pound Olympians, of Washington, in a game of football.

For two periods the Olympians, outweighed 25 to 40 pounds to the player, outfought their foes, but in the end superior beef and brawn told and Lorton scored two touchdowns and an extra point to win by 13 to 0.

"But they weren't so tough," said the Olympians' manager after the game. To which there was an echo from Gallinger Hospital where a pair of the Lorton lads were removed with broken bones.

Celtics Down Apaches by 25-0 Score

Brilliant Team Play of Alexandrians Routs Indians.

Price, Dewey, Hensley, McMenamin in Star Roles.

By LEWIS F. ATCHISON.

ABOUT 2,000 of the faithful were on hand at Griffith Stadium yesterday afternoon, come to witness a thrilling football drama entitled "The Apaches' Revenge," in four acts, but, oddly enough, the entire cast lost its cue in the very first act, and when the curtain descended upon the final scene the Apache heroes looked the part of tired and badly disillusioned bums, and St. Mary's Celtics had scored another victory in the South Atlantic League by the decisive score of 25 to 0.

Not even the most ardent follower of the Southeast aggregation will deny the superiority of the hard-driving, hard-tackling and elusive ball-carrying crew from Alexandria.

No "Reinforcements" for Celtics.

Several weeks ago when these same Apaches suffered a 32-0 defeat at the hands of the Celtics there was much talk of the Celtic "reenforcements." Yesterday the Alexandrians relied solely on home-grown players to produce their winning points, and the boys redeemed the St. Mary's honor in fine fashion. The long-awaited and much-expected "cellar" team failed to appear, and it is probably just as well it didn't, or the score might have been doubled.

The Apaches received the first scoring opportunity of the game in the first quarter when Du Four recovered a Celtic fumble on the latter's 25-yard line. Two line plunges failed to gain, and on the third play, another plunge, the Indians fumbled and Clint Price recovered for the Saints. This same Price, by the way, played like an all-American at left end. He continually deposited the opposing ball carriers deep in their own territory each time they came his way.

A pass, McMenamin to Dwyer, carried the pigskin 30 yards out of Celtic territory, and then the visitors resorted to a series of slashing off-tackle plays, intermingled with short, bullet-like passes that swept their opponents off their feet. After reaching the 10-yard line, the Apaches held for two downs, but Lee Hensley ploughed his way through tackle on the third attempt and did not halt until he was over the goal. Mosko blocked the try for point.

McMenamin Pass Nets 40-Yards.

The eventual winners gained possession of the ball in the second period after a double exchange of kicks. With the ball on his own 35-yard line, McMenamin heaved one of his special passes to Price that gained 40 yards. Another pass, McMenamin to Dwyer, advanced the oval to the 1-yard mark, from where Lee Hensley rammed his way through for the second score of the fray. Joe Sweemey tossed a pass to Dwyer to add the extra point.

The third period was devoid of any scoring, but the Celtics continued their game of ring around the roses, with the dishevelled Apaches just retaining enough organization to pass as the roses. Joe Sweeney, McCann, Lee Hensley, and "Admiral" Dewey, breezed through the entire Apache team for healthy gains, but the Indians held at the proper time to prevent further damage.

It was also during the early part of this period that the Apaches pulled their second and last scoring threat of the day.

Eddie Dugan, who played in his shirtsleeves, and looked more like a bathing beauty than a football player, was the big gun in this attack. Dugan slipped off tackle several times for short gains, and added a nifty 15-yard gallop around end for the sake of variety. But when he failed on another stab at the Green line, Byrne called for two passes in succession, neither of which were completed.

The "Admiral" took up the ball carrying duties for the Celtics and reeled off a pretty 30-yard run that carried the teams to the Apaches' 40-yard stripe. Dewey knifed his way through for a couple of additional gains, and apparently looked like a snake to his opponents with his twisting, and turning tactics. So much so that several Apache linemen attempted to rid themselves of his menacing runs by stepping on him.

Apaches Penalized for Roughness.

Referee Metzler admonished the boys for their mistake with a good-sized penalty and sent the offenders to the sidelines to brush up on their zoology. When the Apaches finally re-

Tokyo, Japan, Nov. 15 (A.P.).—The touring United States All-Star Baseball Team defeated a Japanese team, 11 to 0, today before 50,000 fans, who alternated between cheers for the fielding of the Americans and boos for the failure of three Japanese pitchers to make a better showing.

Lefty Grove, of the Philadelphia Athletics, shut out the Japanese team with three hits, one of which was a double by Kaichi Masu, shortstop. Frank O'Doul, Frank Frisch and Willie Kamm hit two-baggers for the Americans.

SCENE OF RACING SHIFTS TO BOWIE FOR 13-DAY MEETING

10,000 Race Is Feature Today

Prince Georges Handicap Draws Field of Fast Horses.

Tote Choice of Snodgrass; Workless Is Choice in 3d.

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

BOWIE racing begins today, the final meeting of the Eastern racing season. It will consist of twelve days of the regular progam and a charity racing special day on November 30, making thirteen days altogether. The time for the start of the first race is 1 o'clock, with seven races featured by the ninth running of the Prince Georges Handicap, at a mile and one-sixteenth, $10,000 added, for 3-year-olds.

Several new improvements have been made at Bowie under the new management, J. B. Boyle, manager, and Thomas K. Lynch, widely known chart maker and turf writer, assistant manager. Joseph McLennan, secretary at Bowie, Arlington Park and the Fair Grounds, has shown what he can do in arranging attractive racing cards by his offering on the opening day, with large fields in all the races except the fifth, and that has six horses. Eighteen horses have been named for the featured Prince Georges.

The early starting hour of 1 o'clock gives satisfaction, enabling the running of the seventh race before dark. Bowie can be reached by good roads for automobiles and the W., B. & A. electric road.

It appears the track will remain fast for the opening. The Wheatley Stable's TOTE, winner of three races at Pimlico, one of the surprise horses of the year, and which will be coupled with the Belair Stud's ORMESBY, is regarded best in the Prince Georges Handicap, fourth on the program. Besides TOTE'S three Pimlico victories, he won his two last starts at Jamaica, five in a row. He goes to the front at once and has shown no evidence of trying. ORMESBY beat BLIND LANE four lengths in his last start. WATERWAY should be chief contender. The gelding won his only start in Maryland Friday, going away from KHORASAN. HIBALA, a fast colt in New York, may keep in front of the others. There is speed among some of those not mentioned above, and PITTSBURGHER, ALLEZ, VITE and RISQUE at least have a chance.

FIRST RACE—MUELLER, which has not started in Maryland, but which ran good races in Chicago, appears best of the maiden 2-year-olds. BRIGHT KNOT, third last out to Sandwrack, is fit, and should win if MUELLER fails. LORD TOURNAMENT has early speed—this race is 5½ furlongs—and may get third.

SECOND RACE—In this test, also for 2-year-olds, Brookmeade Stable's TOM takes off weight and holds his own, appearing much the best of the field of twenty. His last race should be ignored. On the race previous to that he was second to Trycycle. GENERAL COURT, which was disqualified on Friday, coming back and winning Saturday, will be the contender. LAST ATTEMPT will be one of the choices.

THIRD RACE—WORKLESS is selected. TARNISH, which won his last two starts, is quite dangerous to this field, and will be close to the winner. KADIAK seems to be rounding to form and may surprise. The field is a cheap one.

FIFTH RACE—KHORASAN'S race behind WATERWAY was a good effort and points to the Seagram horse as winner. MORSEL should be the contender. His last was not his best by any means. INCEPTION may wake up and get third money. It appears the horse is going back.

SIXTH RACE—GIGANTIC outclasses his field. He beat Ladana at Aqueduct and there is no Ladana in this field. LIVE ONE won easily the other day at Pimlico, and is regarded the contender in this. HONEY GROVE can do better than his last race shows. He has a chance to take front money.

SEVENTH RACE—MONOCLE has shown much improvement this fall, second in his last two starts. The Farrell horse will have VACATION, winner in the field in his last start, as a serious contender. But on form HOMELIKE should be the most considered for place money.

Condition of Nertney "Very Satisfactory"

Baltimore, Nov. 15 (A.P.).—Willie Nertney and Vincent Roussell, jockeys, injured in a spill at Pimlico track yesterday afternoon, were reported to be in a satisfactory condition tonight at a Baltimore hospital.

Nertney, believed at first to be the more seriously injured, was said by physicians to be "very satisfactory.". He sustained a concussion of the brain but no internal injuries, as was feared at first.

Roussell's collar bone was fractured. Doctors said his condition was "fine."

The two were thrown to the track at the quarter-mile post in the third race. Nertney was riding Blue Damsel and Roussell was up on Sandwrack. The horses were caught in a jam and fell.

ing for customers who had the right to beller and scold if his playing had happened to disappoint their erratic desires.

No account of the stirring struggle of the professionals would be fair and complete without a special tribute to the agile grace and majestic authority of Mr. Frank (Buck) O'Neill, of 101 Ranch, Harvard and Oxford University, in the role of head linesman. Mr. O'Neill is an all-time, all-American head linesman and anyone who saw him in tremendous action today, elevating the job of head linesman to its deserved importance is certain to forget all other head linesmen. His pacing off of the yards, feet and inches was scrupulous and efficient and yet distinguished by a certain magnificence and he was in fact, a very Barrymore of a head linesman, and should receive a substantial percentage of the gate.

Bears Produce Touchdown.

The Bears' deferred attack gave them a touchdown in the third quarter after three forward passes which, had they been tossed and ketched in a famous college game would have sent echoes ringing down the sport pages for weeks. One of them, from Brumbaugh to Johnsos, made a 35-yard gain and gave the Bears a first down on the Giants' 25-yard line. Another from Brumbaugh to Red Grange, attended by confusing false gestures to uncover the receiver, led to another first down at the 13-yard line. Losing the ball on downs at the 8-yard line, the Bears got it back again on their 25-yard line through a bad punt by Wyckoff of the Giants and their thrust for the score was resumed with only a slight interruption, culminating this time in a 25-yard pass from Lintzenich to Johnsos for the touchdown.

Hein of the Giants blocked Brumbaugh's kick and the score was tied. In the final quarter, the Giants were damaged by a 15-yard penalty for holding which gave the Bears the ball on the Giants' 45-yard line. The attack swept the Giants to their 1-yard line, with various tout figures crawling off the lot in anguish as the fury of the game unjointed them, and it looked as though some of the boys were actually willing to die, or at any rate be very ill, for dear old Mr. Mara and the dear old Halas Brothers, managers and props of the Chicago Bears, Inc. Brumbaugh was thrown for a 10-yard loss on an end run as the final effort of this attack and the customers, with ardent devotion to the old Mara traditions, raised a good substantial yell of delight, mingled with the singing of the Mara loyalty song, "Fight, fight, fight for Mister Mara, Esq."

Pass Brings Score.

The winning touchdown for the Bears occurred abruptly when Lyman intercepted a pass on the 30-yard line. Two plays intervened and Garland Grange scored on a long pass from Brumbaugh. Buckler's place-kick for the goal was wide and the score was 12 to 6. And so it ended, but the patrons were not sufficiently advanced in their traditions to go into a snake dance and the goal posts remained upright as they filed out. They have had professional cheer leaders in this game to teach the patrons the traditions and perhaps a few hired house wreckers, tearing down the goal posts in alcoholic enthusiasm a couple of times could establish this custom on a firm basis with the Mara alumni.

LITTLE CENTS WIN.

The Centennials, 125-pound gridders, trimmed the National Pale Drys on the Tidal Basin Field yesterday by a score of 13 to 0. It was a well-played game, but the little "Cents" completely outplayed their opponents throughout the major portion of the game.

Hoppe Beats Cochran To Regain 18.1 Crown

Pittsburgh, Nov. 15 (A.P.).—Willie Hoppe regained the world's 18.1 billiard championship from Welker Cochran, 3,600 to 3,037, in their challenge match which ended here today.

An early lead assumed by Hoppe was cut down considerably in the final two blocks of play. In the eleventh 300-point block, played Saturday, Cochran shot 367 to 300 for Hoppe, and in the final block it was Cochran, 504; Hoppe, 300.

Charity Game Heads Open Downtown Ticket Office

Seat Sale for Alabama Grid Triple-Header Opens at Spalding's Today; Special "Rooter" Sections Planned.

ENCOURAGED by the first day's sale last Saturday, officials in charge of the unemployment benefit football games to be played in Griffith Stadium December 12 with Alabama's Rose Bowl champions meeting Georgetown, George Washington and Catholic U. in 20-minute games, plan a wider distribution of the pasteboards beginning today.

At 9 o'clock tickets will be placed on sale at Spalding's, 1338 G street northwest, and it is hoped in this way to accommodate the large number of fans whose employment keeps them in the downtown district during the day. This is the only downtown point of distribution thus far established. In the meantime the sale continues at the box office at Griffith Stadium.

Tickets in "Rooters" Sections Offered.

For the convenience of students of the three local universities involved, special representatives of the committee in charge will visit Georgetown, George Washington and Catholic tomorrow morning, undertaking the sale of tickets for the sidelines and "rooters" sections. Certain sections of the stands will be designated solely for the occupancy of the students of these institutions.

Until December 1 the public is offered a saving of 50 cents on each ticket purchased. The established prices are general admission, $1.50; reserved seats, $2, and box seats, $2.50. By purchasing before December 1 the public may share in the saving that usually goes for rain insurance premiums.

The Alabama team that meets the Capital trio of teams will include in its personnel eight members of this year's Crimson Tide varsity. Last Saturday the Tide rolled up one of the greatest point totals in Southern football history when it defeated Clemson College, of South Carolina, by a score of 74 to 7. This score is nearly twice as large as Tennessee, one of the South's undefeated teams, registered against the same opponent. Alabama's only loss this season was inflicted by Tennessee.

All of Alabama Squad in Coast Game.

The entire 22 players whom Coach Frank Thomas, of Alabama, will escort to Washington participated in the Rose Bowl game in which Alabama trounced Washington State, 24 to 0, last New Year's Day in Pasadena, Calif.

2 CUE STARS PLAY HERE TODAY

Hoppe, New Champ, Meets Cochran at Lewis & Krauss.

DISTRICT billiardists will be given their first treat in many moons at the Lewis and Krauss parlors this afternoon and evening, when the two masters, Welker Cochran and Willie Hoppe, cross cues in a combination balkline and three-cushion match, to be followed by exhibitions of fancy and trick shots.

Cochran took the 18.1 world's title away from Hoppe last season after the latter had held it for several years, but Hoppe turned the tables on him and regained the crown in a challenge match which ended in New York yesterday. So the veteran will be wearing his newly regained crown for the first time when he appears here today against Cochran.

After losing the title last year to Cochran, Hoppe gave up 18.1 play for a time and took up the three-cushion game. He is trying a comeback this season, however, and the regaining of his 18.1 crown was half the job he assigned himself. Getting the 18.2 title is his other ambition.

Both Cochran and Hoppe will be among the favorites in the 18.2 championship tournament this year, and their present tour, which is taking them to many of the big cities from coast to coast is to get them in top form.

Two matches will be staged here at 3 and 8 o'clock, with ladies invited as guests of the management at the night performance. The pair will play 250 points at 18.2 and 25 points at three cushions at both matches here and each will follow with a fancy shot exhibition

BUSINESS TO GIVE TECH FIGHT

Interest Is High in Charity Contest Tomorrow.

UNUSUAL interest is being shown in tomorrow's finale in the high school football series, which will bring together Tech and Business in a game whose proceeds will be given to the poor of the District. Admission has been set at 50 cents for adults and 15 cents for high school students. The game starts at 3:30 o'clock in Central's widespread stadium.

While Tech is a heavy favorite to stride on to victory, and thus accomplish the feat of winning four consecutive high school championships and eighteen straight game victories, it will have its hands full with the scrappy little Business Team, which three times previous in this series has gone down to defeat by close scores.

Three Tech Teams To Play.

Tech's massive squad, three teams strong, will see service. The 1931 edition of the Manual Trainers carry on in great style the standards which have been set by their predecessors. The team has tremendous driving power in its back field, two of the greatest ends in high school history, and a line which has balked all attacks upon it in the series to date.

George Sachs, captain, should take first place among the high scorers tomorrow, if he can nick the Business line as he has done the lines of Western, Central and Eastern. Sachs now is tied with Jim Draper, of Western, with four touchdowns apiece, and Western has wound up its series games.

Opposing Sachs as the principal ball carrier is big Larry Flynn, bulwark of the Business High line. Flynn is one of the most natural gridmen to break into the series in the last several years. He never played before this year, and has practiced less than half a dozen times this year. He runs without interference and is one of the fastest and hardest driving men in the series.

Last year's high school charity game, between Tech and Eastern, raised nearly $1,500 for the Salvation Army and the Central Union Mission.

GUNNERS REGAIN LEAD IN CAPITAL CITY UNLIMITED RACE

Sailors Rout Dixie Pigs By 18-9

Mercury Wins From St. Stephen's, 7-6, in Thriller.

Brookland, Fraters in Other Victories of Afternoon.

TEAM STANDINGS.	W.	L.	T.	Pts.

Mercury	3	1	1	7
Dixie Pigs	2	2	2	6

Marions	1	2	3	5
Del Ray	1	3	0	2
St. Stephen's	1	4	0	2
Smith-Blue Coals	0	4	1	1

THE Seaman Gunners regained undisputed possession of the lead in the unlimited division of The Post's Capital City League by trouncing the Dixie Pigs, 18-9, at Seat Pleasant yesterday, but both the Brookland and Mercury Clubs continued to dog the heels of the leaders with victories over Del Ray and St. Stephen's, respectively. In the other tilt, played at Alexandria, the Fraters ran their streak of Capital City League victories to three in a row defeating a fighting Marion eleven, 13-6.

The Sailors and Dixies had a wild and woolly battle that kept the fans on their feet from start to finish, but the early lead gained by the former in the first period sufficed to bring home the bacon. The Tars took the ball in the first quarter after an exchange of kicks, and after a series of line plunges succeeded in sending Hall over for the first score. The second touchdown followed in quick order. The Dixies fumbled on their own 10-yard line and Narusheff retrieved the sphere for the Gunners. Three drives through the line propelled Narusheff over for the final chalkmark.

Dixies Benefit By Safety.

Not content to sit idly by and watch their opponents run away with the fray, the Dixies tallied a safety in the second period and followed this advantage up with a touchdown in the third quarter. Another safety marker in the final stanza, however, settled the issue.

Cabell's dash of 45 yards after intercepting a forward pass tossed by Bergling in the first period started the Fraters on their way to victory. The run advanced the leather to the 15-yard line, from where Haywood, Elliott and Cabell took it over. The Fraters added what proved to be the winning score a few minutes later on a pass, Bell to Haywood, that netted 17 yards. The touchdown followed the interception of a Marion pass by Jack Sampson.

The Marions also tallied their lone score of the day through an intercepted heave. Eddie Hoff gathered in Bell's floater and reeled off a 73-yard dash through a field strewn with members of both teams for the touchdown. Rudy Hughes, at tackle, and Hogan, at end, put up a great game for the Washington eleven.

Zumbo passed up an opportunity to inscribe his name beside that of other immortals in the sandlot hall of fame when he missed the try for a point after touchdown in the St. Stephen's-Mercury game. Had the kick been good the Saints would have tied the champions. As it was, they outplayed the Southwest club for the greater part of the fray, and accomplished this with only eleven men. The Wingfeet scored when C. Limerick blocked Zumbo's punt and Bertolino fell on the ball behind the goal for the touchdown. Handiboe won the game by adding the extra point with a neat placement. A 35-yards pass, Zumbo to Heine, brought the Saints to a 6-pointer in the third period. It was the best exhibition the West-Enders have given this season.

Brookland Team Scores.

Brookland shoved over a touchdown in the second period of its game with Del Ray to bring home the bacon. Tom Evans edged over the line after a sustained march from midfield. Del Ray surprised the Brooklanders with its strength and the former was obliged to fight all the way to obtain the verdict. The play of Woodruff, Warren and Tom Evans, Gensmere, Emery and Williams were outstanding for the Virginians.

MIRACLES OF SPORTS. —By Robert Edgren

Tulane Is Greeted By 50,000 Crowd

New Orleans Turns Out En Masse to Honor Football Idols.

New Orleans, Nov. 15 (U.P.).—The wildest holiday since Mardi Gras broke spontaneously here today as Tulane University's Green Wave, flushed with glory and beaming with enthusiasm, returned home to continue an undefeated season in Southern football.

Almost 50,000 persons jammed around the L. & N. railroad station to welcome the team which Saturday defeated the Georgia University Bulldogs 20-7 at Athens in probably the greatest game ever seen on a Southern gridiron.

The crush was so great that police reserves alone were able to brush aside the interference and conduct Capt. Jerry Dalrymple and members of his team on a hastily organized parade to city hall. Shouting admirers almost tore Jerry's suit from his body.

Kids fought and scrambled, risked their lives "just to touch the car where Zimmerman was riding." The racket of the thousands was augmented by the police band and automobiles adjusted to backfire with the roar of howitzers. Torpedoes were hurled to the pavement to add to the din.

G. U. Visits Villanova For Game Saturday

With a chance to balance its season's record with a victory, Georgetown engages Villanova next Saturday on the latter's field. Having emerged impressively from its slump last Saturday at the expense of West Virginia, the Hilltop needs but one more triumph to offset its four defeats.

No further losses were suffered through injuries in the West Virginia game, and the Hilltoppers look forward to the Wildcat battle with confidence. For the first seven weeks of the season they were continually harassed by the injury bugaboo. They are not as yet, however, at full strength, as Bradley, Gellis, Brickman, Danieu and Maczees—all regulars—are still incapacitated.

Leroy Bordeau and Joe Alenty, back field veterans who gave way to the reserves, Shimmins and Stanley, in the West Virginia contest, are not to be considered as displaced, Coach Mills stated last night. The veterans needed a rest, the coach explained.

Alabama Golf Tourney To Be Held in Florida

Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 15 (A.P.).—Here's a treat for paradox patrons—the 1932 Alabama amateur golf tournament will be played in Florida.

It will force Gordon Smith, long-driving Mobile star, to leave his State to defend his title as Alabama amateur champion.

pursued a career in professional boxing, during which time he was defeated but twice in more than 30 bouts. Jim Maloney and Marty Gallagher, another Washington, were the only fighters to defeat him.

Since last year Lamar has been serving as athletic director of the Health Club, of Boston, an organization of business men numbering about 750 members. With his Harvard position in addition to the other he has decided to discontinue professional boxing. His connection at Harvard entails assistance in the coaching of the freshman football team.

SAINTS NEAR 135-POUND CROWN

St. Stephen's Down Apaches, 6-0, in Capital City.

ST. STEPHEN'S PREPS virtually clinched the title in the 135-pound division of The Post's Capital City League yesterday when it drubbed the Apache Preps, 6 to 0, in a game that was all it was cracked up to be. It was the final league game of the season for the little Indians. In the other game played in this division, the Northeast Trojans concluded their league campaign by trimming the Federals in a close battle, 6 to 2.

"Ike" Scheele, fractured elbow and all, provided the necessary punch that carried the Saints to victory. Scheele climaxed a 70-yard drive of his team in the last five minutes of play with a sweeping end run of 25 yards to score.

Apaches Fight Hard But Losing Game.

Bob Lucas, Joe and Dick Mulhall and Lucas had alternated in advancing the ball to this point. The Apaches fought tooth and nail until the final whistle, but the cards were against them yesterday.

Jenkins' off-tackle plunge in the second period produced the only touchdown in the Trojan-Federal fray. A series of forward passes with Cornell, Guazza and Shoemaker on the receiving end had previously advanced the ball deep into Federal territory. W. Mahoney collected the Federals' two points in the final quarter, when he smeared Jenkins behind his own goal line. Cook, the Mahoney brothers, Lawless and Meyers played well for the losers.

WEISS, FIGHTER, CRITICALLY HURT

line, another boxer, for a week-end rest at the seashore resort when the machine in which they were riding overturned. Kitchline escaped with minor injuries, but Weiss sustained internal injuries.

Weiss is well known to Capital fight fans, having appeared before them in three bouts during the past summer. At Laurel he won a decision over Pete Latzo, former world's welterweight champion and at Fort Washington fought Reds Barry twice, each bout resulting in a draw. Against Schwartz, a local product, he would have been considered a favorite.

Godwin, the substitute, also will be favored to win from Schwartz tonight on the basis of a decision victory over Reds Barry, who outpointed Schwartz early in the summer. Godwin has a national rating which was given him recently by Everlast, one of the leading ring magazines. He is placed fourteenth on the list of light heavyweights topped by Maxey Rosenbloom, the champion.

Schwartz Big Favorite in Alexandria.

Schwartz, an Alexandria native, will not lack support tonight, however, if history is repeated. In all of his appearances hereabouts he has attracted a large following of hometown adherents. Having won three bouts in a row late in the summer after a month's sojourn in the camp of Jim Maloney in Boston, he is figured to be much improved, and, as such, should force Godwin to step lively all the way.

Five other bouts, including a semi-final of eight rounds, complete the card, the first of a series planned to produce funds needed to pay off debts outstanding against the Alexandria Day Nursery. Business men of Alexandria are behind the project. The arena, capable of seating 4,000 persons, is located at North St. Asaph and Pendleton streets.

Sailor McKenna, popular Washington lightweight, is matched against Charley Gomer, of Baltimore, in the semifinal. This will be McKenna's last bout in this vicinity in several months, as he is scheduled to depart tomorrow on a campaign in the South. Reports of Gomer's prowess indicate that the sailor is in for a warm session, for the Baltimore scrapper is rated only a few steps behind Jack Portney, Phil Raymond and Buster Brown, all lightweights of established reputation. Gomer has twice defeated Bobby Burns, who held McKenna to a draw at Fort Washington last month.

A slugging match is anticipated in the main preliminary of four rounds which brings together Ray Bowen and K. O. Riley, both local welterweights. Riley is noted for his hard punching and Bowen, while capable of good boxing, likes to mix it, too. Bowen and Willie Eschinger, another of the preliminary artists, will accompany McKenna on the trip to Dixie.

Eschinger is listed to meet Sailor Oden. The other bouts feature Nevin Barber, Washington lightweight, vs. Marini Marino, Johnstown, Pa., and Roddy Davis, another local lightweight, vs. Young Jack Britton, Georgia.

FREEMAN QUITS WELTERS.

Tampa, Fla., Nov. 15 (A.P.).—Tommy Freeman has put on too much weight to continue fighting to regain the welterweight title he lost last April. Freeman will enter the middleweight class soon, his manager said, and seek the title vacated by Mickey Walker.

Palace, Centennials Tied At Top of 150-Pounders

Beat Stanton and Pet Pennants, Respectively; Brentwood Hawks and Northern Preps Other Capital City League Winners.

TEAM STANDINGS.	W.	L.	T.	Pts.
Palace	5	0	0	10
Centennials	4	0	2	10
Brookland	3	0	2	8
Brentwood Hawks	3	1	2	8
Meridians	2	2	1	5
Northern Preps	2	3	0	4
Stantons	1	4	1	3
Petworth Pennants	0	5	0	0

AN inspired Stanton football team threw a bad scare into the Palace eleven and almost nosed out its rival, but was finally subdued by a score of 6 to 0 in the feature of the 150-pound division of The Post's Capital City League yesterday. The champion Centennials stopped the Petworth Pennants, 13 to 0, Brentwood Hawks downed the Columbias, 19 to 0, and the Northern Preps turned back the Meridians, 13 to 0 in other league games.

By their victories, the Palace and Centennial teams tied for the leadership with 8 points each. Brookland, which also figured in the tie for the leadership up until yesterday, idled and was dropped into a deadlock with Brentwood for the runner-up berth.

Blocked Stanton Kick Nets Palace Score.

Hurley, who stood out in the Palace line-up, saved the day for his mates when he blocked a Stanton kick and fell on the bounding pigskin behind the goal line for the only score of the game. Aside from this, the former title holders could do little with their big Northeast rivals. The latter surprised with the strongest attack they have shown this season, and in the final period penetrated to the Palace 12-yard line before being halted.

Paul Lawson counted the first Northern Prep touchdown in the Meridian tussle, after he had received a pass from Williams on the goal line. Williams, himself, attended to the manufacturing of the second marker. He threaded his way 30 yards through a broken field after receiving a toss from Kessler. Boughton's good interference saved Williams near the goal when several Meridians almost caught him. J. Rudei chalked up a 6-pointer for the eventual losers, going over from the 1-foot mark in the third period. Watson raced around end for the extra period.

For one full period, the Columbia eleven held its own with the Hawks, but just for one. The suburbanites' attack began functioning in the second quarter and they rang up two touchdowns in rapid succession. W. Fellner and McManus deposited the ball behind the Columbia goal line for the Hawks.

Hawks Score Again in Final Period.

Again in the third period Columbia held, and its opponents were obliged to wait until the final period before making the final touchdown of the day, Finch going over. Shine, quarter back; Barnes and Bruzbart, linemen, scintillated in the Columbia defense, while Holt and Albee disported to an advantage for Brentwood.

An intercepted pass again sent the Centennials on their way to victory. Ray Foley grabbing a stray Petworth heave and stepping off 60 yards to score. The champs' second score resulted from a blocked kick by Reid, which was recovered behind the Petworth goal by Shapiro. The Pennants exhibited the best form they have shown this season to hold their highly touted opponents to the low score. In the final period they unloosed an attack of their own which halted only on the 10-yard line.

LAY MISSION GROUP FORMULATES PLANS TO AROUSE INTEREST

District Campaign Outlined at Meeting Held at Calvary Church.

CHARLES P. TAFT ACTS AS SESSION CHAIRMAN

Walter H. Newton Praises Part of Missionaries in World Amity.

Plans for a District church and community campaign for expansion of missionary activities were formulated yesterday at twenty-fifth anniversary observance of organization of the Laymen's Missionary Movement, at Calvary Baptist Church.

At a meeting celebrating "Men and Missions Sunday," 72 members of the movement adopted a resolution providing for appointment of a men's missionary committee "properly integrated with existing official or voluntary organizations to bring the men of the church to study, to pray and to serve, and to support more adequately the work of its mission boards."

The resolution called also for arrangement of four special sessions of one or more groups for study of a book on missions recommended by the missionary boards. Where practicable, these sessions are to be held in connection with a midweek church-night dinner served by members of the Women's Missionary Society.

Charles P. Taft Presides.

Organization of a Men's Missionary Club to meet once each year at dinner to receive reports concerning the project for which it has assumed responsibility, and to hear one or two brief addresses, also is provided.

In connection with the community program, the resolution provides for organization of a small cooperating committee of the Laymen's Missionary Movement. Theodore Martin, R. H. McNeill, who presented the resolution; Dr. A. C. Christie and Thomas P. Hickman were named as members of this group by Charles P. Taft, of Cincinnati, son of the late President and Chief Justice, who served as chairman of yesterday's meeting.

Occasional luncheons or dinners of the men of all churches in the District are to be held when notable missionary speakers may be available. The committee also is given the responsibility of arranging for observance of "Men and Missions Sunday" here November 15, next year.

Human Needs Primary.

In opening the conference yesterday Mr. Taft pointed out that missionaries have other purposes to fulfill besides dissemination of religion and emphasized importance of meeting human needs as one of the primary functions of missionary work, such as providing medical aid and aiding in solution of other material problems.

Mr. Taft declared that Christianity is the world's only democratic religion and that therefore it will succeed where other religions will pass.

"If we need Christianity, then certainly so does the rest of the world," he declared, emphasizing the need for missionary activities.

International Amity Cited.

Walter H. Newton, secretary to President Hoover, emphasized the part which missionaries may play in promotion of international amity.

The Rev. Alan A. Stockdale, pastor of the First Congregational Church, declared that the reason Christianity has endured and grown is because it is a religion of sporting instincts and its development has challenged the fighting and sporting spirit of its leaders who have progressed in the face of heavy odds.

"Christian missionary work has been a daring and dramatic dream," he remarked, explaining that the dangers of mission work have spurred missionaries to their best efforts. He added that the work of a missionary should not be to proselyte but to leaven the world.

Six Invaders Rob Man in Own Home

Charles P. Shore Reports $112 and Gun Taken by Holdups.

Police yesterday were investigating a belated report made by Charles P. Shore, of 1009 Riley's court southwest, that he was held up Saturday afternoon by six white men who forced their way into his house and took $112 and a pistol.

Shore, who said several of the men wore handkerchief masks over their faces, told police that a friend, John Rollins, opened the door Saturday in response to a knock and was thrust aside by the men. Two of them held him at the point of a gun, Shore said, while the remainder of the group ransacked the second floor of the house.

The name of a man who frequents a nearby corner was furnished by Shore as the suspected leader of the holdup men.

Hoover's Hound Visits Post and Tour Ends

Ouija, President Hoover's Norwegian elkhound, took it upon himself to make an unofficial good-will tour of the city early yesterday morning, but was apprehended by the long arm of the law before making more than one amicable contact.

Slipping out of the White House grounds, the friendly animal bounded and frisked along Pennsylvania avenue until he reached The Post building. Stopping there he announced himself with a little yelp and extended his paw in greeting to E. A. Hummer, foreman of The Post mail room. Hummer accepted the paw, introducing himself as he did so, and asked the good-natured Ouija whence he came.

Unable to interpret the dog's explanation, Hummer conducted him into the newspaper office. The arrival of two policemen brought Ouija's tour of exploration to an unceremonious close, and with many dissenting barks and yelps, he was finally prevailed upon to return to his kennel.

WINDOW DEDICATED AND ILLUMINATED AT FOUNDRY METHODIST

Ceremony Is Made Possible Through Donations of Two Members.

Shining from the top of the Foundry Methodist Episcopal Church, the illuminated figure of Jesus Christ with arms outstretched will be visible every night on Sixteenth street.

The window, bearing the figure of the Saviour, was dedicated as an inspiration to the people of the Capital by the congregation of the Foundry Church last night. While trams streamed by on Sixteenth street, the congregation gathered on the church steps at Sixteenth and R streets and joined in the singing of hymns as the window was illuminated.

Gift of Two Members.

The window, known as the "Come Unto Me" window, has been a part of the church for 25 years, but its illumination has just been made possible through the gift of two members of the church, Mrs. Martha W. Adams and Mrs. Eliza A. Greist. Through this donation, an electrical system has been installed connected with a time clock which will cause the light to be turned on and off automatically each night.

Standing on the church steps, the Rev. Frederick Brown Harris, the pastor, conducted the dedication service. His voice carried across Sixteenth street, uttering these words, "In this Capital city, where the affairs of state are discussed and decided, and where in legislative halls vast issues are at stake for the weal or woe of the world, we illumine this window as a solemn reminder that the Government is upon the shoulders of Him who is the Light of the World."

Two Donors Presented.

At the conclusion of the brief dedicatory address, Justin Lawrie, the soloist of the church, sang two hymns and then led the congregation in singing. As the last hymn was sung, Dr. Harris escorted Mrs. Adams and Mrs. Greist to the steps.

In his evening sermon, preceding the dedication, Dr. Harris preached on "The Christ of the Street," in which he showed that the Saviour conducted His ministry on the streets, mingling with the throng and touching all phases of life.

Yesterday marked the seventh anniversary of Dr. Harris as pastor of the Foundry M. E. Church. In recognition of this he was presented with a silver candlestick, bearing seven candles. The subject of his morning sermon was "Seven."

DISCHARGED DRIVER STABBED IN TUSSLE

Taxicab Operator Is Held After Former Employe Is Wounded.

In a fight near the Roosevelt Hotel with his former employer, John English, 26 years old, a taxicab driver, was seriously wounded in the stomach by a knife thrust. He is in a serious condition in Emergency Hospital.

William B. Dobkins, 27 years old, who is reported to have recently discharged English from his employ, is being held for investigation at the Second Precinct, pending the outcome of English's injuries.

Dobkins disclaims responsibility for the wounding of English, although, police say, he admits that he defended himself against an assault by English and another man, whom police are now seeking.

Dobkins, who operates several Diamond taxicabs, says he was assaulted by English and another man at Sixteenth and U streets. He says English collapsed after they had assaulted him. The third man fled. Dobkins told police he had discharged English several weeks ago and since then, there has been enmity between them.

English was taken to Emergency Hospital where a blood transfusion was resorted to in an attempt to save his life. English lives at 1506 Seventeenth street northwest. Dobkins gave his address as 1404 Crittenden street northwest.

A five-year plan in the fields of education, health, economics, politics and religion was discussed yesterday at the Nineteenth Street Baptist Church by W. E Burghardt DuBois, director of publications of the National Association for Advancement of Colored People. The purpose of the meeting was an appeal for the District of Columbia quota of funds for protection of civil liberties of the Negro, and for new members.

A brief address on matters of political and economic interest was made by Dr. Charles Edward Russell, who spoke in place of the grand exalted ruler of Elks. Occupants of the platform were James Brown Scott, of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace; J. C. Bruce, Judge James A. Cobb and the Rev. R. W. Brooks, who said the invocation and benediction.

TrainingSchoolFugitive, Captured, Escapes Again

A most elusive lad is Bernard W. Rhine, 18 years old, who Saturday escaped from the National Training School for Boys, on Bladensburg road northeast, where he had been placed by District authorities after being involved in the theft of an automobile some months ago.

Bernard was picked up later in the day and sent to the Receiving Home, after being found by police in an automobile which they said he could prove no right to be operating. Yesterday he gave attendants at the Receiving Home the slip and police last night were looking for him. His home is at 203 Fifth street southeast.

Four Policemen Face Trial Today in Beating of Harker

Cases of Mostyn, Grooms, Burroughs and Laflin Are First of Eighteen Coming Before Court; Glassford to Take Oath of Office.

The trial of eighteen policemen, indicted on assault charges as the result of the investigation of third degree methods in the Police Department, will begin today when four First Precinct policemen face trial in the beating of James Henry Harker.

Simultaneously, the military regime will be inaugurated when Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford takes oath of office as chief of police, replacing Maj. Henry G. Pratt, who was retired because of "defective vision."

After a delay of one week, caused by illness of one defendant, James A. Mostyn, W. C. Grooms, William Burroughs and W. R. Laflin will be tried on charges of manhandling Harker.

The Harker case was chosen to lead the list of court trials of members of the department because of the prominence given the case after its disclosure in The Post.

Leo A. Rover, United States attorney, will present the Harker case to the jury. Harker claims that after his arrest as a suspect in a housebreaking case, he was brutally beaten at the First Precinct Station.

Terrific Car Crash Slightly Hurts 4

Machine Almost Climbs Last Buttress on Viaduct at Florida Avenue.

Four persons were slightly hurt early yesterday morning when the automobile in which they were riding careened against a buttress at one end of the viaduct at Florida avenue and Eckington place northeast and after slithering from one side of the bridge to the other almost climbed the last buttress on the west end.

The impact of the final collision drove the motor of the car up through the floor board into the front seat and the machine was demolished. In spite of the apparent violence of the collision the four escaped with minor injuries.

One man, Maurice Kavanaugh, 31 years old, of 2 I street northwest, was treated at Casualty Hospital. The other three were taken to Emergency. Two of them, Frank Daly, of 922 Twenty-third street northwest, and Joseph Lynch, 38, of 2444 Twentieth street northwest, were treated for cuts and bruises. The third man refused to allow himself to be treated and refused to give his name.

DR. J. I. BARRETT HITS EDUCATION METHODS

Catholic Radio Hour Speaker Says Teachers Give Attention Only to Intellect.

Declaring that modern educators give attention only to the intellect of "our young people" and ignored the development of other faculties, Dr. John I. Barrett, J. C. L., superintendent of archdiocesan schools, advocated education that will impart more than knowledge in a discourse yesterday afternoon on the Washington Catholic Radio Hour.

Dr. Barrett called attention to the advice given recently by the Pope in his letter on education to draw out not only the mind but to train other faculties and thus teach young people how to use knowledge they receive. "Herein lies the difference between Catholic education and others," Dr. Barrett said. "Catholic education means enlightening the mind of the child and at the same time training his will.

The speaker did not criticise in its entirety education in the United States and praised its remarkable progress. However, he said: "As we go along in our country today we can find that a great deal of education that is given means knowledge and nothing more than knowledge."

The Rev. Francis J. Hurney presided at the service, which was broadcast at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon from the Immaculate Conception Church through Station WOL. Father Hurney was assisted at the blessing of the sick and the Solemn Lourdes Procession in the Grotto of Our Lady of Lourdes by the Rev. Stanley A. Czyz and the Rev. J. Kelly Reese.

Dr. Sheba A. Christie was guest vocal artist. Miss Florence Yocum, soloist of the Immaculate Conception Choir, was assisted by Miss Ann Arlen. Prof. Howard Wheaton Howard, organist, was in charge of music. The Boys' Sanctuary Choir sang under the direction of Brother Lewis.

Bedell Extradition Again Is Delayed

Detective O'Dea's Illness to Set Back Plans for Bringing Prisoner Here.

Illness of Detective Sergt. Larry O'Dea, in charge of the investigation of the Salvadorean Legation liquor robbery and assault on Minister Carlos Leiva, then charge d'affaires, has resulted in a further setback in Washington authorities' plans to bring William E. Bedell here from New York to answer charges in connection with the affair.

Detective O'Dea was to have appeared before a United States commissioner in New York today to testify in regard to extradition proceedings pending in the Bedell matter, but it is expected that he will be indisposed for at least a week or possibly ten days.

Attorneys for Bedell obtained the hearing, which had been scheduled for today after it had been thought by officials here that the legation robbery suspect was finally to be brought here. Bedell's lawyers claimed that at the last hearing a proper allowance was not made for rebuttal of testimony by O'Dea and New York detectives.

10,237 Pay Visit To "Old Ironsides"

English Light Cruiser Also Draws Much Attention; Leaves Wednesday.

The famous "Old Ironsides," the United States frigate Constitution, drew a crowd of 10,237 visitors to her decks yesterday at the Navy Yard.

With a crowd of between 15,000 and 20,000 persons jamming the yard, an added attraction was offered in the English light cruiser Delhi, docked next to the Constitution. This cruiser arrived at the yard Friday and will be here until Wednesday morning, when it will leave for Hampton Roads before returning to England. Visitors will be allowed to go through the ship every day during the working hours of the yard.

Washington Sea Scouts who have been serving as guides on the Constitution at the navy yard visited the modern British battleship, H. M. S. Delhi Saturday afternoon.

The eighteen Scouts lined up on the deck of the Constitution and saluted her flag and the British flag as they were lowered at sunset. The Sea Scouts were then marched over to the British ship and inspected it from end to end.

Woman's Arm Broken When Struck by Auto

Gertrude E. McKenzie, 56 years old of 1705 Lanier place northwest, was in Emergency Hospital last night in an undetermined condition as the result of injuries sustained when struck by an automobile near Eighteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest. No charges were placed against the driver of the car, Welzy Horsley, 410 Sixth street northwest.

The woman was said at the hospital to have sustained a fracture of the left arm, contusions of the face and body and shock.

Police Squad Called As Movie Reel Breaks

One of the first Jewish all-talking motion pictures to be produced was presented in Washington yesterday and made its debut here to the raucous accompaniment of belligerent patrons yelling: "We want our money back!"

A series of mishaps in presenting the picture, first of which was running the records of the "talky" performance in the wrong order, resulted in a deluge of ticket holders at the box office demanding their money. A riot call brought out a police squad headed by a lieutenant to quell the disgruntled pleasure seekers.

Admissions were not refunded—and many refusing the offer of checks milled in the lobby of the Washington Auditorium, where "The Yiddisha Mama" was scheduled to be shown, until the management announced that the show was to be resumed and that it was ready to give the audience of 800 a correct showing.

AGE NOW BEGINNING WILL EXALT CHRIST, DR. SMITH ASSERTS

Tyranny of Rich Will Give Way to Real Virtues, Pastor Says.

"The humanly built world is tumbling," declared Dr. Harvey Baker Smith, pastor of Columbia Heights Christian Church, preaching yesterday morning on the subject, "Christ and Tomorrow."

"This generation lives in a truly heroic period seeing the end of an age and the beginning of a new epoch. The question mark invades the places of spiritual residence hitherto sacred and unchallenged," he went on.

"Only that which has divine worth can survive or should. Religion that accommodated its meaning and message to the day and hour is helpless. Reality has been asked for by eager souls. The husks of yesterday mean nothing to the soul of this hour unless they hold the grain that feeds life.

"Christ said, 'I am the bread of life.' There is not one single principle of living which He announced that has been challenged successfully," the speaker said.

Perfect Soul Is Ideal.

"In personal relationships He gave us the ideal of a perfect soul. To an age tyrannized over by the rich and awed by the pretentious, Christ taught that baggage is no sign of real importance.

"Appetite may ride in a Pierce Arrow, but the golden rule points to real character. The spiritual virtues have primacy in His message. The meek inherit the earth. The merciful enter into the temple of mercy. If you would see God, your life must be pure in purpose, intention and relationship. The peacemakers are the sons of God.

"The warmakers have been idealized. Human personality was exalted and the slave became a brother and slavery ceased. Money was to be a servant of His kingdom. Woman lifted her head and love ceased to be a matter of price and became the sacrament of life.

Christ Is Supreme Character.

"Happiness came as a gift of being spiritually fine and rewards were in the measure of things not seen.

"The two great men of the East today are Kagawa and Gandhi. One holds in his hand an open Bible. He lives simply amidst the needs of those who cry for justice. He points them to the Christ as the one prophet who knows not race or color and in whose teachings there is happiness for all.

"Christ is the supreme world character today. His Gospel is the supreme teaching for life fulfillment. If any man is in Christ he is a new creature, anywhere, anytime," the speaker concluded.

Boy Is Wounded In Rifle Accident

Piece Discharged in Hands of Chum Sends Bullet Into Wrist.

Henry Wagner, 14 years old, 531 Ninth street northeast, received a flesh wound on his right wrist and a possible fracture of the injured member yesterday afternoon when a .22-caliber rifle in the hands of a chum was accidentally discharged. At Casualty Hospital it was said his condition was not serious but that he would remain overnight.

The shooting took place at the home of Claison King, 825 F street northeast. James Rogers, 16 years old, 529½ Ninth street northeast, was sitting across a room from young Wagner, examining the rifle, when it was fired inadvertently. King took the wounded lad to the hospital.

Police questioned King and Rogers last night and are convinced that the affair was entirely accidental. There were no arrests.

HAWAIIAN EXAMPLE HELD OF HIGH VALUE IN WORLD GOOD WILL

Bishop Littell Tells Unique Status of Islands as "Experimental Station."

EAST AND WEST JOINED IN AMITY, HE ASSERTS

Credits Christian Influence With Bringing About Happy Situation There.

Describing Hawaii as "an experimental station of international good will on which a cosmopolitan population lives in better understanding than in any other country in the world," the Right Rev. S. Harrington Littell, Bishop of Honolulu, spoke yesterday afternoon at the National Cathedral.

"Hawaii is a meeting point of the East and the West," the bishop went on, "and there the children of all races have an equal chance."

The speaker pointed out that interracial caste and strife are reduced to a minimum on the islands and that the wall of nationalism which a country so often builds around itself is completely broken down there, thus preventing misunderstanding and warfare with other nations.

To illustrate the cosmopolitan nature of the population, the bishop told of a young boy who was descended from German, Portuguese, Hawaiian, Japanese and Chinese stock. When asked what race he belonged to he replied that he was an American.

Advent of Christianity.

"And the other important thing about this youngster is that he is a Christian, as are his brothers and sisters," the bishop said.

The happy situation of the country was attributed to the unusual and excellent climate and the fact that missionaries as early as 1820 carried the word of God to the island.

It was pointed out that following the discovery of the island by Capt. Cook, English missionaries soon followed the adventurous band of people who went there to settle. These were followed by a group of New England missionaries whose efforts, combined with those of their predecessors, brought religion to the planters and settlers so that when the general wave of labor immigration from Japan and China, and later the Philippines, started, a religious groundwork had been laid, the fruits of which are now being reaped.

Bishop Littel explained that at present two-thirds of the population of Hawaii is Oriental but that due to the religious background of the country 53 per cent of the Japanese who have made the islands their home have repudiated the religion of their ancestors.

Church Pioneer in Mercy.

Hawaii was also described as "a training school for the kingdom of God." "Although the entire main island is not as large as the State of Delaware it is a good place to work out the problems of the world and to carry the results to other countries," Bishop Littel said.

An example of this was given in the life of Sun Yat Sen, the late Chinese president, who was educated on the island and who carried his advanced and religious views back to his own country.

The bishop also pointed out that the Christian religion had established schools, hospitals, asylums and leper colonies, work which is not started by any other agency. It was explained that this work, after its start, is often taken up by the Government. "Thus the Christian Church has endeared itself to the people by these services and performed work not even undertaken by any other religious groups," he said.

Smallness Gives Greatness.

Though Hawaii is small in size and numbers," Bishop Littell went on, "it is the smallness of the gem which gives greatness, and this dot in the middle of the Pacific may yet be able to teach all nations that they are of one blood.

"It is like the criticism of the great master, Michael Angelo, who, on seeing the work of one of his pupils who had genius but who had not carried his expression as far as possible, said, 'Something larger.' Thus, the expression, 'something larger,' may be described as God's word to us today," the bishop concluded.

Bishop Littell, who returned to this country to attend the general convention of the Episcopal church, spoke yesterday morning at St. Margaret's Episcopal Church, and last night at the National Cathedral School for Girls. Today he will speak to the boys of St. Albans School and tomorrow to the students of the Virginia Theological Seminary.

Star Gazers Losing Sleep Over Coy Leonid Meteors

This is the time of year when people who take their star gazing seriously lose sleep between the hours of 2 and 6 in the morning, searching the northwestern sky for the Leonid meteors.

These meteors, a display of shooting stars emanating from the constellation Leo, and sometimes known as the November meteors, are supposed to make their annual appearance several nights about this time of the month. Amateur astronomers in Washington, as well as professionals at Naval Observatory, were on the lookout for them Sunday morning, but nothing was seen because of extreme cloudiness.

Many star gazers who are eager to see the display, but don't like to stay awake, have left word at the Naval Observatory to be called if the celestial celebration appears. Workers at the observatory were stationed at their telescopes last night. The scintillating streaks of light were not due at the time of going to press. The vigil will be continued tonight and tomorrow night.

The Leonid meteors appear in main form only once every 33 years, according to Harry E. Burton, in charge of the observatory. The display is so powerful at this time that the stars can be seen despite cloudy skies.

The next full force of the demonstration is due in 1933.

Delhi Marine Is Quite Bored With U. S., But Not Our Girls

His Majesty's Ship Delhi, now docked at the Washington Navy Yard, has on board at least one British Marine who is not very impressed by what Washington has to offer. He wandered into the Y. M. C. A. yesterday in search of something to do. Because of his blue uniform with its brilliant yellow and red facings, he was instantly surrounded by an eager group of insistent questioners.

"Yes," he said, "I was disappointed in the White House. It looked so terribly insignificant when one considers that it houses the king of the land, so to speak. I expected something luxurious—you know, I've heard so much about how awfully rich you Americans were and I thought that perhaps I'd see something like the palace of the Shah of Persia. Gold and silver and jewels—and all them things."

"No, I'm not disappointed in the American girls. They're most awfully good looking, you know. But I don't like the way they dance; they're a trifle clumsy, don't you think?"

"The Library of Congress? Rather shabby, what?"

"What's impressed me most about America? Your curiosity. I've never answered so many balmy questions since I've been in the service. How long? Eleven years."

With which he calmly picked up his swagger stick and sauntered out in search of "something to write home about."

"Cheerio!"
